BARCELONA KEY DEFENSE POINT FALLS TO REBELS

Catalonian Towns Hit by Air Raids.

(Map on back page.)

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier], Dec. 26.—(AP)—The Spanish rebel military command reported tonight the capture of Borjas Blancas, a strategic town 16 miles southeast of Lerida on the main Catalonian highway to Tarragona on the Mediterranean coast.

Rebel radio stations broadcast a report from Generalissimo Francisco Franco's general headquarters that this important position fell in the fourth day of their general offensive into the heart of Catalonia.

Borjas Blancas is approximately 35 air miles from Tarragona and is at the southern end of the defense line extending to Balaguer which the loyalists built as a protection for Barcelona, the government capital.

Penetrate Mountains.

Just south of Borjas Blancas, the rebels reported they penetrated the province of Tarragona in the vicinity of the Llena mountains, where the government had erected a strongly fortified line. In making the drive the rebels occupied two important towns, Cogull, on the river Set, and Granadella, on the slopes of the Sierra de la Llena.

Cogull and Granadella both straddle roads connecting Lerida and Tarragona. Cogull is also a strategic town on rail lines between the two towns.

The rebel columns in the mountains and those at Borjas Blancas apparently were endeavoring to form a junction at Montblanch, twenty miles to the east, for a combined push against Tarragona. Montblanch is a junction point on the curving main Lerida-Tarragona highway.

Many Towns Are Bombed.

Rebel planes coöperated in the drive and Borjas Blancas was heavily bombed before it was captured.

Loyalist dispatches also said the rebels bombed a number of rear guard towns, killing at least thirty-five persons and wounding more than seventy. Nine persons were killed at Reks, which is about ten miles from Tarragona on the highway.

Pons, forty miles up the Segre river from Lerida, and Torre del Barra and Sama in the Tarragona sector, were among the places attacked.

A fast rebel plane bombed the port zone of Barcelona. Workers unloading food ships were wounded.

One raid was made in far southwestern Spain. Madrid reported that nine rebel planes killed several persons and wounded fifty in a noon raid on the village of El Viso. The village is approximately 150 miles southwest of Madrid. Forty buildings were destroyed.

Gain North of Lerida.

Elsewhere in Catalonia Franco's troops reported a slow but steady advance. Rebels operating north of Lerida reported they penetrated loyalist lines a distance of four and a half miles and captured 1,000 prisoners.

The government, however, asserted that its defenses were holding firm east of Tremp, a principal hydro-electric station, against relentless rebel assaults. Italian soldiers were reported taken prisoners in the upper Segre river sector.

Rebel advices said that of twenty-seven divisions taking part in the Catalonian offensive, only one was made up of Italians.

500,000 Troops in Action.

The battle lines, along which were arrayed 500,000 men on both sides, began to take clear form as Gen. Franco used his time tried tactics of surrounding and slashing off broad government sectors in a criss-cross progress toward his final goal.

South of Tremp, ninety miles northwest of Barcelona, veteran Navarrese forces and Moroccans cut deeper into government territory on the southern skirts of the Monsech mountains.

The central spearhead has been driven 15 miles east of the Noguera Pallaresa river to Peralba in the campaign to swing around the government's strong Monsech mountain fortifications.

The government's extreme northern fortifications, which have been described by neutral military experts as the finest erected during the 30 months of the civil war, apparently were keeping the upper Pyrenees impregnable.

Instead of concrete and steel lines, like those around Bilbao, which the

CHRISTMAS GIFTS SENT OUT IN 1937 FINALLY ARRIVE

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 26.—(AP)—John Rohrer's 1937 Christmas present to his parents living across town took a day and a year to be delivered.

Postal officials, who started an investigation to determine the cause, said the package may have been stored away in an empty extra mail sack during the year. The package containing ties, hose and the like arrived just before John put in a personal appearance with a new supply of gifts.

"We thought it a little strange last year when we did not receive any gifts from John," Mrs. J. E. Rohrer said, "but we didn't say anything about it to him."

NEXT MOVE PUT UP TO ITALIANS IN COLONY ROW

Paris Rejects Hitler as Peace Maker.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—(AP)—France told Italy today that she accepted the Italian note renouncing the 1935 Laval - Mussolini territorial treaty, but that the accord must stand as the only basis for negotiations between the two powers. Thus, the next move in the colonial issue was put squarely up to Italy.

André François-Poncet

Premier Edouard Daladier, despite Fascist cries of "provocation," disclosed plans to make his tour of Corsica and Tunisia a mighty "hands off" demonstration to Premier Mussolini's legions.

The French note was sent to Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, by Andre François-Poncet, French ambassador to Rome. It answered Italy's note which declared the 1935 pact annulled. The pact gave more than 44,000 square miles of territory to Italian Libya and Italian Somaliland at the expense of Tunisia and French Somaliland.

To Travel by Warship.

Daladier arranged to travel by warship and to review huge parades in Corsica, France's Mediterranean island department, and Tunisia, her North African protectorate, in a tour of military fanfare.

Both territories have been prominent in the Fascist territorial clamor raised in Italian chamber of deputies, Nov. 30. The Italian cries for French lands were given official encouragement by the Italian government's renunciation of the 1935 treaty, which also assured citizenship rights of Italian subjects in Tunisia until 1965.

Daladier announced his trip, tentatively scheduled to start Jan. 2, after the tension over colonies arose and touched off angry demonstrations on both sides.

Arranges Plans for Trip.

Despite the pointed warning yesterday of Virginio Gayda, authoritative Italian editor, that Italy would consider such a voyage an unfriendly act, Daladier conferred on arrangements with Erik Labonne, resident-general in Tunisia—the French possession most coveted by Italy.

The French government was said in informed quarters to have instructed Francois-Poncet to reject any proposals casting Adolf Hitler in the rôle of peacemaker between Italy and France.

On Christmas day at Paris, it was

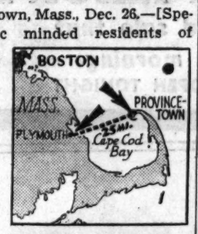
PROVINCETOWN WARS WITH PLYMOUTH FOR A PLACE IN HISTORY

Provincetown, Mass., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Civic minded residents of Provincetown are tired of Plymouth receiving all the historical glory from the landing of the Pilgrims in 1620 and are prepared to prove Provincetown's place in Pilgrim history.



Map shows location of Plymouth and Provincetown.

Provincetown's wrath flared last week when a WPA historian in Washington said he could find no proof that the Pilgrims ever landed at Provincetown. Recorded history says the Pilgrims arrived at Provincetown Nov. 11, 1620, and did not reach Plymouth until Dec. 22.

Provincetown contends the Pilgrims did not land on a rock in Plymouth and that the story of the rock is a myth. To prove the Pilgrims first stopped at Provincetown the citizens plan to excavate the Pilgrims' cemetery where five of their number were buried after dying aboard the Mayflower in Cape Cod bay. If Provincetown folk can prove the Pilgrims stopped there for more than a month they will demand recognition as the birthplace of America.

ERROL FLYNN'S YACHT TOO BIG; U. S. MAY TAKE IT

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Errol Flynn, screen star, may lose his trim sailing yacht, Sirocco, because he is a native of Australia and an alien.

The Sirocco, which Flynn purchased in Boston last March for $25,000, is well over sixty feet in length and is listed at thirty-one gross tons, which is well over the size which, under a federal statute, an alien is permitted to own in this country.

"Although Errol has declared his intention to become an American citizen, it doesn't alter his position," said his attorney, O. R. Cummins. "He made an honest mistake and is willing to abide by whatever action the government takes."

A guard for the United States marshal has taken possession of the Sirocco at its anchorage in the west basin at San Pedro harbor. The government will start libel proceedings against it this week.

Woman Makes Glass Invisible and Glareless

(Picture on Back Page.)

Schenectady, N. Y., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Discovery of a coating that makes glass invisible was announced today by Dr. Katharine B. Blodgett, scientist.

Ordinary thicknesses become clear as air, and reveal how much human eyes have been missing in looking through even the finest glass. Purest glass transmits about 92 per cent of light, against more than 99 with the new coating. One of the "invisible" coated panes is visible only by its dimly outlined edges.

The glass never reflects light from any angle, no matter how strong the glare. Clock, dial face and show case glass and windows apparently do not exist. Eyeglasses would not bother wearers with reflection of stray beams from side or behind.

Done with Thin Film.

An incredibly thin film on both surfaces of glass is the secret of this scientific miracle. The film is about four millionths of an inch, or one-quarter the wave length of light, in thickness.

Dr. Blodgett is of the General Electric company's research laboratory. The key to the invention was the discovery that an oily film a single molecule thick can be spread on the surface of water.

This discovery was made by Dr. Irving Langmuir of General Electric, winner of the Nobel prize in chemistry. Miss Blodgett is his associate. They found that by dipping a piece of glass through the floating film, the single-molecule layer would transfer to the solid surface. Each dip adds one layer. Glass is dipped usually 44 times to build the thickness of a quarter wave length of light.

Convinces Scientific World.

Even the scientific world was incredulous when Dr. Langmuir first announced the mono-molecular films. However, he demonstrated their reality by their color changes, which showed that reflected light was broken up in the films, like rays which give the iridescence to the wings of a beetle.

This fact was applied practically by Dr. Blodgett. Films one-quarter of a wave length thick are just right to cause the crest of one wave to overlap the trough of another as the light tries to reflect. The result is cancellation of wave motion which cause reflection.

This cancelation of reflection does not, however, result in any loss of light. The light that ordinarily would be reflected all goes on through the glass. A small fraction of 1 per cent of light is absorbed in the glass itself and this is the only loss. It is too slight to be seen, unless the glass is very thick.

Formula Not Revealed.

The chemical formula of the coating is not made public and neither the process nor its products are on the market for commercial sale. The problem has been to get a film that would not wipe off. Unofficially it is reported this has been done.

The films have another interesting trick. When light passes through any medium, like air or glass, the rays are bent. The amount of bending differs in air and glass. The films must have a bending effect about midway between these two. The films, furthermore, are slightly porous, to imitate the porosity of air. This sponginess is obtained by sowing through the film some minute particles that can be dissolved with acid after the coating.

BLUSTERY WINDS BLOW SEASON'S FIRST COLD WAVE INTO CHICAGO

Blustery winds from the northwest drove the winter's first cold wave into Chicago last night. The forecast was for a minimum of 10 above zero or lower early today. It was indicated, also, that the cold would hang on for several days.

The mercury stayed above the freezing point through most of yesterday. In the afternoon and early evening a misty rain fell. At 7 p. m. the temperature reading was 35. Then the wind shifted. The rain turned to a light snowfall. By 9 p. m. the temperature was 24. There was a further steady recession to an unofficial 12 at 3 a. m.

Below zero readings were reported last night over wide areas in the Dakotas and Minnesota. Some of the roads in those states were blockaded by drifts and highway departments sent out plows to keep the main highways open. The snow in the Chicago area is not expected to be heavy.

'Sunshine,' Evanston Cops Like Your Christmas Gift

Evanston policemen on the night shift last night said they'd like to thank "Sunshine" for her Christmas gift, only they don't know who she is, except that she's a bashful little girl. She appeared at the station Christmas night, placed a decorated package on the floor, and ran out. All police could see was that she was about ten years old. When they opened the box they found a present—an eight cup granite coffee pot. Inclosed was a card marked "From Sunshine."

Mayor Moye of Chinatown Takes a Bride

BY MARCIA WINN.

(Picture on Back Page.)

The pageantry of old China and the customs of modern America were mingled gracefully yesterday when Gerald Moye, the unofficial mayor and leading bachelor of Chicago's Chinatown, was married to Miss Alice Gee Kee of Brooklyn.

The first wedding, with a ritual completely Oriental, was held in the morning. The only persons present were the families of the bride and Mr. Moye, who is executive secretary of the On Leong Business Men's association and a nephew of the late Frank Moy, who was called the mayor of Chinatown for thirty years.

Second Ceremony Held.

Whatever transpired then must always be secret. At least so it was said by guests at the second wedding, which was held at 3:30 p. m. in the restaurant of Tin Yen at 2257 Wentworth avenue. The secrecy includes the bridegroom's new Chinese name, which he now assumes as a symbol that he has attained manhood.

The second wedding was a public Christian service, at which the Rev. Philip Lee, young Chinese pastor of the Chinese Congregational Union church, officiated. It included all the amenities of a modern American wedding, from diamond circlet wedding ring to white orchids and lilies of the valley.

The bride, however, bowed somewhat to tradition. She wore the traditional Chinese wedding robe of scarlet satin brocaded in gold. Long and straight, with a three-inch collar concealing her neck, it hung to the floor. Slits at the sides revealed gold sandals. But even the robe had one modern touch. The sleeves were short rather than tight to the wrist.

Gold Roses in Her Hair.

As tradition ordains she wore two gold roses in her black hair, but her hair was worn in a long bob and was curled.

Despite the tradition of her people she carried long white kid gloves. These were hidden beneath a large bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley. At the close of the ceremony she pinned two purple orchids on her scarlet robe.

The bridegroom looked the pure American in dress. He wore a dark business suit with a white carnation in his lapel. So did the best man, Hone Wu, his secretary.

The maid of honor, Gerald's sister, Blanche, also wore American dress. This, however, was accidental. She was to have worn the long scarlet brocade of tradition. But her robe, ordered from Shanghai, as was the bride's, did not arrive. Instead she wore a turquoise silk dress, short and something on the dirndl order, and carried a copious sheaf of pink roses.

Setting Is Elaborate.

The setting, too, was a mingling of the civilizations. The ceremony took place before two massive silk panels. The panel on the left was of soft blue. On it were two immense gold Chinese characters. Each means "hai," or "joy." The two, Dr. Lee explained, meant "sheng ha," or "double joy." The other panel, of orange, bore characters in gold and in scarlet. These meant "shing shee wing hing," or happiness everlasting.

The altar proper was a small table in front of the panels. It was covered with exquisitely embroidered panels, the table legs concealed by a panel of salmon pink over which ranged in heavy gold embroidery the sacred animal of the Chinese wedding. Dr. Lee said he thought it must be a tiger. He wasn't certain.

On either side of the altar were tall alabaster vases, inlaid with mother of pearl, on tall teakwood stands which also were inlaid with mother of pearl. In these were white carnations. Still taller standards held a Christmas touch, pots of red poinsettias. But the altar itself contained not a cross but a towering tiered wedding cake.

Ice Cream Follows Service.

When it was all over slices of ice cream, with a red bell in the center, and little pink cakes covered with sugar lilies of the valley were served. And cups of steaming hot tea.

For Mr. Moye the receptions won't end for a week. He has to give reception after reception, and a big dinner on Thursday.

Purely Chinese note: The wedding guests, it is understood, paid a wedding assessment of $10 a head.

MILLIONS SPENT BY PRICE FIXING LOBBY FOR LAW

Only an Inquiry Can Reveal Cost.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Millions of dollars were expended by the gigantic price fixing lobby to get the price maintenance legislation checking the competition of the chain stores and assuring 50 per cent profits on trade-marked articles.

How many millions only a searching investigation, requiring the production of the books of the National Association of Retail Druggists, of other organizations composing the lobby, and of individual concerns, like McKesson & Robbins, could determine. The lobby is so strongly intrenched, however, in both congress and the executive branch of the government that it probably will be able to head off an investigation either by the senate lobby investigating committee or by the department of justice.

Great Pressure Organization.

If an investigation should materialize the spotlight would be turned upon the receipts and expenditures of the retail druggists' association with headquarters in Chicago. The secretary of the association, John Dargavel, is credited with the construction of the machinery of the greatest pressure organization of our time, with the possible exception of the Anti-Saloon league. Mr. Dargavel once estimated his organization's expenditure on legislation at about $400,000.

A thorough investigation would require production of the books not only of the retail druggists' association and other units of the lobby but of Senator Millard E. Tydings' Baltimore law firm, Tydings, Sauerwein, Levy & Archer, and of the individual partners. The investigation should cover particularly the period that the Maryland senator was piloting through the senate the Tydings-Miller bill excepting price fixing contracts from the operation of the anti-trust laws.

Represented Druggists' Association.

Senator Tydings' partner, Herbert Levy, was counsel for the retail druggists' association. Inquiry at the office of the Tydings' law firm elicited the information that Mr. Levy left on a cruise Dec. 12 and will not return till next month.

Maj. Archer said that Mr. Levy represented the druggists individually, though "at one time the work became so heavy" that other members and employés of the firm "were required to help out." Senator Tydings asserts, however, that he "never profited one penny" from the connection of his firm with the druggists' association.

How much Mr. Levy received from the lobby could not be ascertained. His connection with the druggists' association was severed Oct. 31, 1937, two and one-half months after the enactment of the Tydings-Miller bill. He then sued the association 1. Chicago for $3,500 he claimed as still due him. A settlement was effected out of court.

Paid for Speeches.

An investigation likewise would delve into the payments by the lobby to Representative Wright Patman [D., Tex.], co-author of the Robinson-Patman act to check chain store competition, an active promoter of the Tydings-Miller resale price maintenance act and author of the bill to be launched in the 76th congress next month to tax chain stores out of existence.

Congressman Patman has received a large amount of money in the aggregate from various units of the lobby ostensibly for speeches on legislation to protect independent retailers from chain store competition. The department of justice investigation of the McKesson & Robbins scandal yielded the information that Mr. Patman received not less than $4,800 for forty-eight speeches, perhaps as much as $18,000 for eighteen speeches.

The department is also investigating a report that McKesson & Robbins gave an automobile to Mr. Patman. THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent telegraphed Mr. Patman, asking if these reports were true but received no answer.

Helped Musica with RFC.

Mr. Patman, it transpires, worked hand in glove with one of the leading spirits of the price fixing lobby, the president of McKesson & Robbins, who rose to affluence and power as F. Donald Coster, though he really was the ex-convict Philip Musica.

According to Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the Texas congressman brought Coster-Musica to the RFC and introduced him to Mr. Jones. Coster-Musica submitted a plea for RFC loans for financially distressed druggists. Mr. Jones told him the druggists should make their own applications and nothing more was heard of the matter. Mr. Patman at his home in Texarcana, Tex., declined to be interviewed on this incident.

Mr. Patman at first denied that he ever received pay for speeches or other services from McKesson & Robbins. The McKesson & Robbins funds, it appears, were paid to Mr. Patman through the Brady lecture bureau of New York. Drug Topics for Nov. 23, 1936, announced that Mr. Patman was making a series of eighteen speeches under the sponsorship of McKesson & Robbins.

Introduced by Sabath.

At the first meeting of the series in Chicago Leo Lanigan, vice president of McKesson & Robbins and president of the National Wholesale Druggists' association, presided and Representative A. J. Sabath [D., Ill.] introduced the Texas congressman. In the course of his speech Mr. Patman said:

"It shall be my task in the weeks to come to travel this country speaking to groups like this, urging immediately recognition of the Robinson-Patman law, calling for coöperation with those who endorse it unqualifiedly, and will work with and for it unreservedly. I shall name names and I shall do this gladly, because I did not lend my name and give my time to the passage of a law which I shall willingly or wittingly permit to die from lack of exercise.

Praise for Company.

"In the National Association of Retail Druggists Journal of Nov. 5, 1936, I read with interest the courageous announcement of McKesson & Robbins to the effect that higher discounts and fair profits would be given to all of their customers under the Robinson-Patman law.

"This announcement pleases me because this organization—McKesson & Robbins—supported the Robinson-Patman law. They helped to cause its enactment; they worked shoulder to shoulder with the leaders of the retail drug industry in sponsoring this legislation, and I am thoroughly convinced that this organization sincerely helped to pass the law and is now sincerely trying to observe it."

CALL WITNESSES TO RESUME QUIZ IN DRUG SCANDAL

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The financial background of the 105 year old McKesson & Robbins drug firm in which swindlers operated from 1926 to 1938 will be studied by the federal grand jury when it resumes its inquiry here tomorrow.

Charles F. Michaels.

Ten directors of the company have been ordered to appear to explain why no investigation was made into the machinations of Philip Musica, former convict who masqueraded under the name of F. Donald Coster to gain control of the huge drug corporation. Coster-Musica committed suicide when his identity was exposed ten days ago.

One of those called before the grand jury is Charles F. Michaels, who succeeded Coster-Musica as president of McKesson & Robbins. Another is Marie Sikora, secretary to Coster-Musica's brother, Robert Dietrich-Musica. Dietrich-Musica and two other brothers, George Dietrich-Musica and George Vernard-Arthur Musica—all of whom were officers of the drug company under fictitious names—are under indictment. They are charged with larceny and forgery and held in jail in default of bonds.

Admits Firing Accidental Shot That Killed Friend

Albert Brewer, 32 years old, porter in a saloon at 2013 Canalport avenue, surrendered to the Maxwell street police last night and admitted that he accidentally shot and killed Joseph P. Ashknas, a CCC worker, Sunday night. The shooting took place in a room over the saloon. Brewer said a pistol bullet struck Ashknas when he dropped the weapon. "I just got scared and ran," he said; "Ashknas was my friend." His story of the shooting has been verified by witnesses.

CHANCERY RULING ASKS PICKET BAN ON MILK DRIVERS

Court Urged to Issue Writ for Sixty Dealers.

Recommendation that the Milk Wagon Drivers' union be restrained from picketing sixty stores selling cut rate milk was made yesterday to Superior Judge John J. Lupe by Master in Chancery Robert W. Dunn. Judge Lupe will be asked to enjoin the union in accordance with the recommendation, said Attorney Edgar J. Cook, representing the dealers.

Robert W. Dunn.

The master's findings are that there is no employer-employé relationships involved in the dispute. The union has been picketing the stores for many months on the theory the milk is not handled by union men prior to its receipt by the retailers.

Other Efforts Have Failed.

Attempts of other groups of retail milk dealers to obtain similar injunctions in the past have failed. Last month Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan refused to issue such an injunction, ruling that it was not properly a matter for the federal courts.

According to Cook the basis of the master's recommendation is somewhat different from that in the opinion announced last week by the Appellate court which bans picketing where no strike is in progress. In that case the high court halted the efforts of a union to force the employés of a beauty shop to become members.

An injunction will make it impossible in the future for a union to picket the product of a manufacturer along its commercial path to the consumer and to bring pressure on every one who deals in it, Cook said. The master declared that unless a halt was called somewhere a union might picket the home of the consumer of nonunion goods. The right to picket is a qualified right subordinate to the inherent or absolute right of the dealers to the protection of their business, he held.

Explains Dealer Operations.

The Farmers' Coöperative Milk company, which has offices at 515 North Pulaski road, furnishes the milk to the sixty dealers, Cook said. The company represents 150 farmers of McHenry and Boone counties. The retail milk dealers, none of whom makes any deliveries in competition with the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, are not organized, the attorney said.

But by an arrangement with the farmers they banded together for the purpose of this suit. It was fought by the union, and Cook said eight days were spent in the production of evidence and making arguments.

Meningitis Victim Gets His 13th Transfusion

Another blood transfusion was given to Raymond Potter Jr., 14 years old, at Municipal Contagious Disease hospital yesterday. It was Raymond's thirteenth transfusion since he was stricken with staphylococcus meningitis more than two weeks ago. His physician, Dr. Luther M. Lorance, said after the transfusion that the boy's condition was favorable. Only twelve persons have ever survived the usually quickly fatal disease.

ILL WIND BLOWS GEORGE INTO JAIL AS CHECK FORGER

It was an ill wind that blew a check out of George Tiemann's pocket Saturday evening. Just because of that vagrant breeze, Tiemann, who is 76 years old and the owner of a long record as a forger, is under arrest at the Brighton Park police station. He has confessed passing worthless checks for a total of $200.

Tiemann was at 35th street and Western avenue when the little bit of paper was wafted toward Policeman Cornelius Koelikant, who picked it up. Although Tiemann denied he had ever seen the check, Koelikant refused to believe him and hustled the old man to the station. There he was searched and fifteen more checks just like the floating one were discovered in his pockets.

All were printed with the name of a chain grocery firm. Tiemann also had a letter, purportedly written by the company, stating that the enclosed check was in settlement of a personal injury suit. He said he had used this note in identifying himself to bartenders who cashed the checks. Three of the victims have identified him and signed complaints.

INJURIES IN FALL FATAL.

George Papageorge, 62 years old, a restaurant cook, died yesterday in the Franklin Boulevard hospital of injuries incurred Sunday when he fell on a stairway. He lived at the Harrison hotel.

AUTO PLOWS INTO 9 ON ICY STREET; 4 GIRLS INJURED

Group Caught as Trafic Light Changes.

Four girls were injured last night when an automobile plowed into a group of nine girls at La Salle street and Chicago avenue. The girls were on their way home from St. Nicholas Hellenic Orthodox church, 1017 North La Salle street, and were in the center of the street when the lights changed. Reuben Potter, 38 years old, 1838 North Wells street, was unable to stop in time and skidded on the icy street into the girls. His car also struck a safety island post, and then crashed into the Moody church on the northwest corner.

The girls injured were Christine Regas, 15, of 833 Sedgwick street, and Estelle Xepapas, 14; Angeline Nicolas, 15, and her sister, Penelope, 14, all of 408 West Chicago avenue. Potter also was injured. All were taken to the Henrotin hospital. Their injuries are not serious. Police said Potter admitted having drunk several glasses of beer.

Held in Hit-Run Death.

Worth township authorities yesterday were holding Jan Janin, 19 years old, of 3005 Vermont street, in the suburb, in connection with the death of William Freiberg, 66, killed Sunday evening by the automobile of a hit and run driver in Blue Island.

A door handle was broken off the car by the impact and later was found by police to fit Janin's machine.

John Deischer, 75 years old, 2201 Washington boulevard, a commission merchant, died last night in the County hospital of a skull fracture suffered Christmas day when he was struck by an automobile at Madison street and Western avenue. The driver, H. Lazar, 27, of 5043 North Troy street, a clerk, was charged with reckless driving.

Mrs. Sarah Learner of LaGrange died yesterday in a hospital at Angola, Ind., bringing to four the fatalities in an automobile collision on U. S. highway 20 near the Indiana-Ohio state line. Seven persons were injured.

1938 Trafic Deaths Drop.

It seemed certain yesterday that this year's automobile accident death toll in Illinois will be lower by approximately 400 lives than that of 1937. These 400 who will be alive to greet the new year would have been dead had last year's massacre continued unabated.

Between Jan. 1 and Dec. 1 of this year, 1,909 persons were killed, according to records of the state division of highways. In the corresponding period last year, 2,344 persons lost their lives. The 1938 reduction amounted to 18.6.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 888 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 681 were killed in Chicago, while 20,276 were injured during the same period.

CUTS OFF HAND TO FREE SELF FROM STOKER

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Henry Donnett, 32 years old, a janitor, was keeping the fires going in Central High school last night. When the stoker plunger of the furnace became clogged he reached into the hole and his hand was caught in the mechanism.

Alone in the building and fearing the plunger would tear off his entire arm, Donnett managed to reach his pocket knife and hacked off the hand at the wrist. Then he wound a wire tourniquet around his arm and staggered to a telephone.

Doctors at General hospital said Donnett will recover.

WOMAN DIES OF BURNS.

Pana, Ill., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Elisabeth Selba, 65 years old, of Tower Hill, died last night at Huber Memorial hospital here of burns suffered when her dress caught fire from a kitchen range.

Has Pneumonia

MRS. HARRY RICHMAN.

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Harry Richman, wife of the actor and night club owner, was taken to the Mount Sinai hospital yesterday suffering from bronchial pneumonia. She spent a comfortable day today, physicians reported. She was formerly a show girl.

College Men . . . Take this 1939 Hollywood Idea Back to School

"Controlled Break"

A NEW DRAPE STYLED BY ROBERT SURREY

It was first discovered by Robert Surrey, Hart Schaffner & Marx style scout, on West Coast college men, in Hollywood studios and exclusive clubs of movie stars.

"Delmar" is the 1939 version of the drape . . . for the "break" at the chest and shoulders is controlled to create smooth, athletic, broad-shouldered lines without altering the soft, casual drape effect at the sleevehead. This tall, broad-shouldered, slim-waisted effect is heightened by the trousers which are fuller at the knees, tapering to narrower cuffs.

It's another "style first" by Baskin . . . presented in

LIMA DELEGATES SPEED WORK FOR CLOSING SESSION

Pan-American Highway Meeting to Be Held.

LIMA, Dec. 26.—(AP)—United States delegates today hailed the eighth Pan-American conference which closes tomorrow as a monument of achievement and an excellent example for future assemblies of the western world's twenty-one republics.

This note of optimism was registered as the various delegations began breaking up after more than two weeks of earnest negotiations which produced some 130 resolutions and declarations, including the "Lima declaration" for new world solidarity and defense.

Many of the United States' delegates already were laying plans for technical Pan-American conferences to be held shortly. Among them were assemblies on the Pan-American highway and on intellectual cooperation, both of which will be held in Santiago, Chile.

Regional Meeting of Consuls.

Ben N. Cherrington, chief of the state department division of cultural relations, will go from Lima to Santiago for the latter conference.

Laurence Duggan, chief of the state department division of American republics, will remain in South America to attend a regional meeting of American diplomatic and consular officers on the west coast.

Work continued meanwhile to get the final act of the conference printed for formal signing tomorrow. The secretariat general announced the job will be completed in time for a morning session.

The closing session was summoned for 7 p. m. tomorrow. Dr. Carlos Concha, conference head, will speak.

Closing Festivities.

The final social event will be a dinner and reception given by President Oscar Benavides of Peru at the governor's palace.

Most of the United States delegates planned to go directly from the reception to the nearby port of Callao to board the S. S. Santa Maria which sails for New York early Wednesday.

Secretary and Mrs. Hull gave a farewell reception to the Washington, D. C., and other delegations tonight at the United States embassy.

Alf M. Landon, Republican candidate for President in 1936 and former governor of Kansas, left ahead of his fellow United States delegates today. He took a plane for Gautemala en route home.

Hull issued a statement praising highly the "great service to his country" Landon rendered by coming to Lima. Hull said he had thanked Landon personally, and added that they worked together at the conference in complete harmony.

NO RABIES DEATHS IN CHICAGO FOR 2D YEAR IN A ROW

For the second successive year Chicago recorded no deaths from rabies in 1938, according to a report of the board of health. The report showed a reduction in the number of persons bitten by dogs.

Thus far in 1938 there have been 14,004 cases of dog bite, against 18,238 in the same period last year. The board of health examined 648 dogs for rabies this year, against 800 last year. There were 177 rabies cases in 1938, against 274 in 1937.

The dog pound picked up 16,103 stray dogs this year, compared with 23,366 last year.

HEDY LAMARR.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Blonde Joan Bennett put away her black wig today and firmly resolved never to wear it in another movie.

Fans, she said, have written that her false brunette tresses make her look just like Hedy Lamarr.

"It seems to be an embarrassment to both Hedy and myself," she added. "Anyway, I've always liked blondes best."

RUSSIAN DEVISES SIMPLE MACHINE TO LIQUEFY AIR

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Dec. 26.—Prof. Peter Kapitza, former director of the Royal Society's Mond laboratory in Cambridge, England, whose detention by the Soviet government to head the new Institute of Physical Problems here stirred the scientific world in 1935, has perfected an important new method of liquefying gases, it was announced today.

A vital part of the invention is said to be a turbine of completely original design. It is no larger than a match box and weighs about half a pound, but has far greater efficiency than the machines heretofore used to liquefy air, oxygen, and other gases in science and industry.

The methods in use now for liquefying air, for instance, are costly and require five to six hours of operation and require pressures of 200 to 300 atmospheres. The soviet announcement said Prof. Kapitza's machine requires a pressure of not more than five to six atmospheres [about 75 pounds to the square inch]. In one hour the device supplied between 55 and 65 pounds of liquefied air, the announcement said. The Academy of Sciences voted Prof. Kapitza a bonus of 85,000 rubles [$5,000] and premiums to his six assistants.

SOUTHWEST SIDE SEWER PROJECT NEARLY FINISHED

4 Year Work Will Permit Filling In West Fork.

The board of local improvements next year is scheduled to complete an important sewer project started four years ago. It is the revamping of the sewers on the southwest side to permit the city to fill in the west fork of the south branch of the Chicago river.

Mud creek was what the early settlers called the west fork. Indians traveling from the Chicago river to the Desplaines river used it for a portage. In wet weather rain filled the channel, and it became a navigable waterway.

Father Marquette traveled the portage route in 1674, the first white man to set foot on Chicago soil. In his time the Desplaines river emptied into Mud lake for which the fork was an outlet.

Becomes an Open Sewer.

In later years, as the southwest side was built up, sewer were constructed to drain into the fork. Thus it became an open sewer. In the last decade, citizens complained that it was offensive, and officials recognized that it was a danger to public health.

At the request of Mayor Kelly, congress in 1935 authorized the city to fill it in. First, however, it had to be eliminated from the drainage system. This was done by substituting connections with the drainage canal and the sanitary district intercepting sewer. The interceptor leads to the southwest treatment works in Stickney.

Sewers in Leavitt street, Western avenue, Rockwell street, and sewers joining in Lawndale avenue were connected with the interceptor for dry weather drainage. Then extensions to the canal were built to take up the extra flow during storms.

An arm of the canal which extends north between Albany and Kedzie avenues was connected with sewers running under these thoroughfares. A connection with the interceptor was made also.

Links Still Needed.

Now all that remains to be done is the installation of new canal links for major sewers under Kostner and Kilbourn avenues. The west fork cannot be filled in until this is completed because the sewers overflow into it during wet weather.

The channel of the fork, marking the old portage route, will be gone probably before the end of 1940, officials said. It already has been filled in from along the line of Leavitt street west to Sacramento avenue.

"Filling in the fork will have many advantages for taxpayers," Mayor Kelly said. "Five bridges with large maintenance and renewal costs will be eliminated; streets that were narrowed for the bridges now will be full width; streets that had no bridges will be opened across the old channel; larger outlets will provide better drainage for the area, and space will be provided for large quantities of waste material and a saving of dumping costs."

129,000 Will Be Served.

The new sewers will serve more than 122,000 people living in an area of seven and one-half square miles. Total length of the project is four and one-half miles. All the work is being done by relief labor supervised by the board of local improvements.

Eventually it is planned to extend the Kostner avenue sewer north as far as Diversey avenue to connect most of the west side sewers with the drainage canal. The work is being done without special assessments or other tax burdens upon Chicagoans, the mayor said. In other times such a project, including the north extension, would cost about $6,500,000.

Becomes Mother

MRS. MARSHALL FIELD.

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Christmas brought to the family of Marshall Field an especial reason for seasonal rejoicing—an eight pound daughter.

The girl, as yet unnamed, was born to the 45 year old grandson of the Chicago merchant prince and his third wife, the former Ruth Pruyn Phipps, in Doctor's hospital, it became known today.

Marshall Field III., had spent Christmas eve in the hospital with his pretty young wife. The baby is the fifth child of Field, heir to one of the largest individual fortunes in the world, who inherited an additional $100,000,000 of the Field estate when he celebrated his birthday last Sept. 28.

Find Beaten Victim with Legs and Arms Frozen

Beloit, Wis., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Swen Helgenes, 47 years old, was in a critical condition tonight with both legs and arms frozen and his skull possibly fractured after being found this morning apparently beaten. Police said tracks in the snow indicated Helgenes had been 'n a fight several hours before found and had been dragged a hundred feet into a field and stripped of his shoes and most of his clothing. Helgenes, an unmarried farm hand, was unable to answer questions. Hospital attendants said one leg might have to be amputated.

HOTELS TO ENJOY WET, PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR'S EVE

Top Price on Revelry Is $12.50 This Year.

Chicago hotel men are looking forward to a wet, noisy, and highly prosperous New Year's eve. Not only are reservations far ahead of 1937, but prices, in some instances, are up.

Two places are charging $12.50 a person, plus tax, a $2.50 increase over the universal Chicago maximum last year of $10 a person. These two are the Balinese room at the Blackstone hotel and the Pump room at the Ambassador. The prices includes paper hats, noise makers, and dinner, but all liquid refreshment comes extra. Both places, and the Ambassador's Buttery [$10] report heavy reservations.

Other hotels report an extraordinary number of private parties. The Drake hotel reports about 25, in addition to the 600 reservations already on hand for its Gold Coast room, where last year's $10 has been cut to $7.50.

Morrison Is Sold Out.

The Morrison hotel is sold out. Casino and all, for private parties. A group of 900 has taken over the Casino, while all private dining rooms—even sample display rooms—will be used for 125 smaller parties.

At the Palmer House, where dinner and dancing in the Empire room will cost $10 a person, reservations are in high demand. At the Stevens hotel, 300 persons already have made reservations for the grand ballroom [$6] and 200 for the Continental room [$7.50].

The lowest price among the large hotels is a $2.50 per person minimum in the Glass Hat of the Congress hotel. Its Pompeian room, however, is $5, and its Casino $7.50. The Blue Fountain room of the Hotel La Salle [$7.50] is almost sold out.

4 Rooms in One Hotel.

The Hotel Sherman will have four rooms open for the festivities. Each will have an orchestra. Its College Inn is $7.50, Bal Tabarin $6, grand ballroom $5, and Old Town room $4.50. The Old Town room is $1 more than in 1937.

The Continental room of the Stevens hotel will get $7.50 a person, the grand ballroom $6. At the Bismarck hotel the Walnut room is asking $7.50, the more informal Bierstube $6. The Marine dinning room of the Edgewater Beach hotel, which can take care of 1,000, also is asking $7.50.

Prices vary greatly among the night clubs and restaurants. Chez Paree is asking $10 [plus $1.60 tax], L'Aiglon is asking $6; the Colony club $10; Harry's New York Bar $5 and $3.30; the Hi-Hat club $7.50, and the Royale Frolics $7.50, or, if you don't mind walking down a flight of stairs to dance, $5.

DIES AT DAUGHTER'S HOME.

Byron, Ill., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Jacob W. Hoffmaster, 75 years old. He died yesterday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Albert Erxleben, near here.

FINDS 1 IN 4 DIVORCED PERSONS WOULD LIKE TO REMARRY PARTNERS

More than a fourth of divorced persons would remarry their former partners if circumstances were favorable, Clarence Wesley Schroeder of the University of Chicago discovered through interviews with several hundred men and women whose marriages had been ended by the courts.

Schroeder's report on his studies, made in Peoria, was released yesterday in a thesis he submitted to the university's department of sociology with his candidacy for the degree of doctor of philosophy. He chose Peoria for his study, he said, because it is a typical community—a mean between the large city and the village—and because its divorce rate, 22.3 in each 1,000 population annually, is nearly twice as high as the rates of Illinois and the United States.

Delinquency and relief are incentives to divorce, but, contrary to wide belief, wealth is not, Schroeder concluded. Schroeder found that economic insecurity tended to increase divorce hazards. The divorce rate mounted, he discovered, in sections of the city termed squalid by the federal housing administration.

Chilean President Assailed for Freeing Nazi Rebels

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 26.—The rightist press today opened fire on the Popular Front government in view of the first two decrees signed by President Pedro Aguirre Cerda after he had taken office on Saturday. The decrees declared an amnesty for all persons arrested in connection with the unsuccessful Nazi revolt of Sept. 5. They gave immediate freedom to Nazi leaders, including Jorge Gonzales Von Maree who after being condemned to death had received a reduced sentence of twenty years at hard labor.

ITALY DEFIED BY FRANCE IN ROW OVER COLONIES

Paris Puts Next Move Up to Mussolini.

reported, Mussolini had let the Paris government know through unofficial channels he would suggest that French-Italian differences be submitted to arbitration.

Socialists Woo Democracies.

In the meantime, former Premier Leon Blum, fighting to keep control of the Socialist party at its annual convention, won approval for cooperation among France, the United States, and Great Britain to curb Italy, Germany, and Japan.

He obtained a vote of 4,322, compared with 2,837 for the policy of an insurgent group led by Paul Faure, party secretary, who opposed tripower friendship on the grounds that it might lead to "ideological war." Blum, who plans a trip to the United States early in the new year, told the convention that union of the three great democracies would mean a world front strong enough to support peace. He also urged that France effect close ties between the United States and soviet Russia to oppose the totalitarian states.

Death of Popular Front Seen.

Immediately after the convention began to discuss domestic politics, Blum withdrew a proposal that the party coöperate with the communists and thereby left Faure's plan for an independent Socialist program certain of adoption. Adoption of Faure's policy meant recognition of the fact that the French Popular Front of leftist parties was dead and buried. It had been wrecked by departure of Daladier's Radical Socialists.

The superior war council, charged with formulating plans for any future war involving France, was brought to full membership with the appointment of Gen. Edouard Requin, commander of the Nancy corps area behind the Maginot line on the German frontier. Requin joins two marshals, six infantry commanders, four artillery and three colonial leaders on the strategy board.

Charges France Wrecks Peace.

ROME, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Italian Fascists today charged Premier Edouard Daladier of France with trying to prevent Great Britain from seeking a settlement of Italy's claims against France.

Daladier's forthcoming trip to Corsica and Tunisia was described in the Fascist press as having both a military and political character.

Some writers asserted a chief aim was to make more difficult the appeasement mission of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Britain, when he comes to Rome, Jan. 11, in another stage of his European pacification policy.

Both Corsica, island department of France near Italy's Sicily, and Tunisia, French protectorate in North Africa, have been mentioned by Fascist demonstrators against France. The suggestion has been that Italy wants more rights for the many Italians in these places, although the Italian demands have not been officially formulated.

Makes Sabotage Charge.

The sabotage charge against Daladier was emphasized by Il Lavoro Fascista, whose Paris correspondent said France "never for a single moment has sincerely adhered to the coöperative spirit of Munich and has proved herself contrary to it with greater frankness every day."

Bitter Italian comment on the French refusal to cede an inch of territory to Italy as announced by Foreign Minister George Bonnet of France, strengthened the impression in foreign circles here that Italians want French Somaliland, through which runs the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railway, a gateway to Ethiopia.

One hundred Italians were repatriated today from southern France in what the Fascist press indicated might be a general homeward movement of Italians living in France.

U.S. Renews Protest to Japs Over Bombings in China

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—State department officials said today that because the Japanese government failed to reply satisfactorily to earlier protests against ten bombings of American property in China, United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew made a renewed protest today. The ambassador called the matter to the attention of Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita, repeating his requests that Japanese warplanes cease such attacks.

Julia Cortez age 3, with doll she received at St. Francis church party.

More than 800 poor children on the west side learned yesterday that Santa Claus had not yet left Chicago. They were guests at a Christmas party given at St. Francis church, Roosevelt road and Newberry avenue, by the Friends of St. Francis church. Toys were distributed among the little guests. One of the happiest was Julia Cortez, 3 years old, who received a cheery looking doll. Many of the children are Mexican.

BARCELONA KEY DEFENSE POINT FALLS TO REBELS

rebels shattered, the government has installed machine-gun nests in positions to unloose a curtain of fire that has repulsed all rebel attacks about Tremp.

Both forces—particularly the government troops who lack adequate winter campaign supplies—suffered severely from the intense cold. Hundreds of soldiers were sent to the rear with frostbitten feet to join thousands wounded by shot and shell.

Rebel Supplies Superior.

Rebel sources at the border said Franco banked heavily on his superior supplies of food and war material to carry his Catalonian campaign through successfully. His main military strength was said to lie in his superior field artillery, tank strength, and powerful air force.

In southern Lerida province his men attacked government strongholds behind rows of fast, modern tanks only after field guns had put down a heavy barrage, interrupted to permit bombers to sweep low over little forts and drop their cargoes of explosives.

Pierre Dressy, head of the press and information service, will succeed him in the foreign office.

SPANISH REBELS' COURT TO TRY 2 BRITONS AS SPIES

Arrested Among 50 After Valise Is Seized.

HENDAYE, France, at the Spanish border], Dec. 26.—(AP)—An official communique from rebel Spain today announced that fifty persons had been arrested as a result of the discovery of espionage documents in a valise carried by a British vice consul and that two British subjects would be tried by rebel judges.

The communique issued through the rebel news service said "the British diplomatic pouch was used currently by spy rings at San Sebastian and St. Jean de Luz [France]."

Pay for "Enemy Agents."

Papers found in the pouch carried by Vice Consul Harold Goodman, British vice consul at San Sebastian, were described in the official statement as "information and plans concerning the composition and placing of military forces. There were also Red [government] questionnaires asking the situation of nationalist [rebel] forces. The pouch also was used for contraband foreign currency destined for the most part for payment to enemy agents."

It was further declared that documents found in possession of Spanish government agents included the names of two British subjects: "Mr. Golding at the San Sebastian consulate, and Mr. Rattenbury, attaché at the British agency at Burgos [rebel capital]."

The communique said rebel judges would determine the "responsibility of these two men" who were not identified further.

British Coöperating.

Rebel dispatches said, however, that British government officials were coöperating in investigation of the espionage, indicating that any punishment of British officials would be left to the London foreign office.

The celebrated "case of the dirty shirt" arose on Dec. 19 when espionage documents were found wrapped in a soiled shirt in the baggage of Vice Consul Goodman as he crossed the border.

London dispatches last Friday reported that Goodman was absolved of guilt. Border dispatches the same day reported the suicide of a British consulate porter named "Fermin" who was found to have had access to the vice consul's valise.

Her Slayer Confesses

[Acme Photo.]

LAURA KRUSE.

Spokane, Wash., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Deputy Prosecutor Les Carroll, after going over the known facts in connection with the confession of James Leo Smith, 40 years old, that he assaulted and killed Laura Kruse in Minneapolis nearly two years ago, said today he believed the confession to be genuine.

Smith said he was ready to go back to Minneapolis to face whatever charge may be lodged against him. He was arrested on a drunkenness charge Friday night and he told the jailer he had a confession to make.

Smith was still intoxicated when he first told about the slaying Saturday, and slight credence was given his story until officials telephoned Minneapolis police and learned the murder of Laura Kruse, 18 years old, a beauty operator in South Minneapolis March 20, 1937, was unsolved.

"I followed the Kruse girl several times," said Smith in his confession, "and I decided I liked her. One night I followed her to a house, and just before she got there I jumped on her and choked her. When she screamed I hit her on the chin with my fist."

Smith said he raped the girl and left her motionless on the ground where she was found dead.

Burns Suffered as Dress Ignites Fatal to Girl, 3

Mary Krzyston, 3 years old, died yesterday in the South Chicago hospital from burns suffered Sunday night in her home, 1403 121st street, Whiting. The child awoke after the others in the family were asleep and went into the living room to play with her Christmas presents. When she opened a small heater, the flames ignited her night dress and inflicted fatal injuries before her parents, who heard her screams, could reach her.

U. S. CRUISER PUTS INTO PORT AMID CHEERS FOR ITALY

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Dec. 26.—(AP)—The United States cruiser Phoenix came here on a shakedown cruise today and steamed into the midst of an excited welcome by the Italian population to two newly arrived Italian cruisers.

When the Phoenix arrived thousands of Italians were swarming over the waterfront to greet the new Italian cruisers Duca Diaosta and Eugenio Di Savoia, which are on a world cruise.

The United States warship tied up alongside the Italian ships as the bands of the latter played Fascist songs to the accompaniment of yells of "Viva Duce" and Fascist salutes. The United States and Italian commanders exchanged greetings through their aids.

TWO BROTHERS SEIZED; CONFESS 25 BURGLARIES

Police last night seized two young brothers as alleged burglars and developed what they described as the unusual case of an older brother teaching a younger one the technique of burglary.

The prisoners are Arthur Glazier, 19 years old, and Preston Glazier, 14, both of 2215 North Nordica avenue. Police said that a third brother is now in prison.

According to police the brothers were driven away from a home at 1758 Newcastle avenue by neighbors, including Albert Glass, a policeman, and Joseph Hussar, a deputy bailif. Policemen Thomas Mackey and James Sullivan of the Cragin station made the arrests. Police said the brothers confessed twenty-five burglaries, which netted them $2,500 in loot.

HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE.

Fire in the home of Frank A. Marzullo, 9601 Longwood drive, early yesterday caused damage estimated at several hundred dollars. Chief John A. Homer of the 17th battalion said the fire was caused by a defective oil burner.

ONLY 5 OF 24 U. S. AIR LINES SHOW PROFITS FOR 1938

Short Routes, Mail Pay Help Leaders.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Although the air transportation industry carried its heaviest loads of mail and passengers during 1938, there were profits at the end of the year for only five of the twenty-four companies operating both within and outside domestic borders. A sixth company probably will end the year about even on its books.

But despite this gloomy summary the industry's immediate future appears bright. Most of the large companies took paper losses by creating heavy reserves for insurance and depreciation of flying equipment. The entire situation can and probably will be changed early in 1939 with the revision of air mail pay rates.

Short Air Routes Pay Best.

These were the indications yesterday with the completion of a survey of the transportation phase of the aviation scene. It is noteworthy that profits this year were made over short air routes between large cities on u relatively large volume of passenger trafic. For 1938 passenger revenues represented roughly 65 per cent of total income.

The lines that will show a profit for the year's operations are Northwest Airlines, Pan-American Airways, Chicago and Southern Air Lines, Pennsylvania-Central Airlines, and Eastern Air Lines. The company that probably will break even is American Airlines.

Each Company a Special Case.

While passenger revenue was the controling factor in almost every instance, each company presents a special case. Let us consider them in order.

Northwest Airlines holds mail contracts between Seattle and Chicago and between Minneapolis and Winnipeg. From these the costs of operating three daily schedules from Minneapolis to Seattle, and two from Minneapolis to Winnipeg are almost net.

The slight loss is more than made up on the company's business between Chicago and Minneapolis. Five daily schedules are operated, of which only three carry mail. Most of the schedules are operated with second sections. And the seats are filled between these points for as far as three weeks ahead of schedule.

Operates Close to Belt.

Croll Hunter, president and general manager of the company, has recognized his problems. He is operating a "close to the belt" line west of Minneapolis and concentrating on the short haul business between the Twin cities and Chicago.

Pan-American Airways has enjoyed mail contracts giving it $2 a mile for distances flown from the Caribbean sea and around South America. And for some years it was virtually without competition in an undeveloped territory where the airplane was the only source of rapid transportation. This combination brought profits and dividends for stockholders.

During 1938, however, losses on the trans-Pacific airway, where the Chinese-Japanese war closed the western terminus, and the writing off of funds spent pioneering the North Atlantic route that may be flown in 1940, have cut deeply into profits. The company for this year will show itself in the black, but dividends, if any, will be small.

Trafic Increases Steadily.

Chicago and Southern Air Lines, flying from Chicago to New Orleans via St. Louis, Memphis, and Jackson, Miss., has made profits because passenger trafic has increased steadily. The company always has been extremely careful to maintain the most economical operations policy. Sound growth during the last four years has brought it out of the red.

The routes of Pennsylvania-Central airlines are among the most profitable in the nation. The company serves Milwaukee, Chicago, Flint, Grand Rapids, Detroit, Cleveland, Akron, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Washington, and Norfolk, Va. All are large centers of population and industry.

Furthermore, P. C. A. has been flying Boeing 274D airliners purchased at a depreciated price from United Air Lines when the latter company began reequipping with Douglas DC-3 planes. The capital investment was small. And the Boeings fit perfectly into the company's system with its stops approximately 200 miles apart. With such frequent stops they carry a large pay load at an economical cost per mile.

Eastern Air Lines, operating from New York to Miami, with branch lines from Chicago to Miami via Atlanta, and Atlanta to Houston, has benefited enormously from the gradual trend of industry to the south Atlantic coast. Textiles and certain heavy industries under development in North and South Carolina and Georgia fed passengers and express to the line.

The company also has set air records in transporting northerners to the Florida winter resorts. The more recently acquired spur to Houston taps a wealthy oil country. Trafic from Chicago and the middle west also has grown. Finally, Eastern Air Lines makes connections with Pan-American's planes that bring mail and passengers from South America.

Eastern's New York to Washington route is one of the most profitable in the country. New Deal business in the capital has enabled the company to operate fifteen daily round trips over this 203 mile route. From 7 a. m. until 10 p. m. there is a plane an hour. Mail is carried on only three of these trips.

Short Routes Profitable.

American Airlines, with 6,768 miles of airway, consists of a number of short routes, tied into and around a transcontinental line from Newark, N. J., to Los Angeles. The company serves Boston, New York, Washington, Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo, St. Louis, Fort Worth, Dallas, Phoenix, and Tucson.

The Boston-New York-Washington air route probably is the most profitable in the world. The company operates eleven daily round trips over this airway. American Airlines also operates eleven daily round trips over the Chicago-New York airway, another extremely profitable route.

The company operates a Chicago-Washington route via Cincinnati which is well patronized by business men and legislators. American holds air mail contmacts over eight routes, more than any other airline company, and consequently enjoys more trips upon which air mail pay is received than any other company.

Ratios of Work and Pay Shown.

Postoffice department records show that American Airlines carries 21.24 per cent of all the mail flown in the country and is paid 21.71 per cent of all payments to contract holders. This is an exception among the larger operators, since all the others —United Air Lines and Transcontinental and Western Air—receive substantially less of the total percentage of pay than the total percentage of work they perform.

For instance, United carried 32.29 per cent of all mail flown last September—the last month for which figures are available—but received only 22.92 per cent of the total pay. TWA flew 17.97 per cent of all the mail, but received in payment only 11.85 per cent of the total compensation.

Both these companies have filed petitions for readjustments of air mail pay to bring their own mail revenues into line with the loads they carry. The new Civil Aeronautics authority, empowered to fix all rates of pay, may grant these petitions in which the companies charged that the present arrangement is unfair.

Should United and TWA get new mail contracts that pay them in full for work performed, both would be able to show a profit for 1939.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN APARTMENT; SEEK INQUIRY BY CORONER

Mrs. Alice Spooner, 40 years old, was found dead yesterday in her apartment at 2440 Lake View avenue. Elements of mystery in the case caused the police to ask the coroner's office to make an investigation. An inquest will be held today.

Mrs. Spooner's body, clad in pajamas, was found in the apartment bathroom by her husband, Alfred, an interior decorator. He summoned help, and employés of the building responded. Spooner apparently was in an alcoholic stupor and was unable to give a coherent account of what had happened. He was locked up in the Sheffield avenue police station. The police recalled that he had been arrested ten days ago for disorderly conduct.

Ollie Karwoski, investigator for the coroner, said that Mrs. Spooner apparently died of heart disease, aggravated by alcoholism. A number of bottles that had contained liquor were found in the apartment.

SIAM'S PREMIER SURVIVES THIRD ATTEMPT ON LIFE

BANGKOK, Siam, Dec. 26.—(AP)—A sympathetic message from the British foreign office has disclosed the third attempt in less than four years on the life of Luang Bipul Songgram, who was named premier on Dec. 15.

Premier Songgram.

The message expressed regret over the "recent cowardly attempt of an individual or individuals to destroy the lives" of Songgram, his wife, their daughter, and several other persons "by mixing poison with their food."

All were taken ill after an evening meal shortly before Songgram became premier.

Songgram, who is leader of a militarist nationalist movement that has dominated Siamese political life in recent years, escaped assassination at the hands of his valet last Nov. 10. Another attempt to kill him was made at a football match in February, 1935.

LEGION LEADER WILL RUN GREEN MAYORAL DRIVE

F. C. Watkins Is Named Campaign Manager.

Ferre C. Watkins, lawyer and former Illinois commander of the American Legion, will manage the campaign of Dwight H. Green in the coming mayoralty primary, it was announced yesterday. Green is the choice of the regular Republican organization for the party nomination in the primary Feb. 28.

His two running mates, candidates for city clerk and city treasurer, probably will be picked today at a meeting of the subcommittee on candidates of the Republican city central committee. The subcommittee meets at 3 p. m. in party headquarters in the La Salle hotel.

Watkins, twice decorated for gallantry in action in France, said the election of Green is a civic undertaking rather than a political one.

Green worked in his law office yesterday, answering letters of congratulations that have poured in since his candidacy was announced. He is seeking to get personal affairs in order so that he can devote full time to the campaign after Jan. 1.

Headquarters for his organization will be opened today in the La Salle hotel, largely to accommodate workers, who also are arranging for Green headquarters in each of the city's wards.

Edward F. Moore, county Republican chairman and a member of the subcommittee on candidates, said that each of the city's Republican ward committeemen has been asked to suggest names for Green's running mates on the organization committee.

The group which will make the choice today consists of Moore, Robert C. Rohn, secretary of the central committee, and two committeemen representing each group of ten wards in Chicago.

They are William E. King [2d], Charles Krutckoff [4th], Felix Kucharski [12th], George Fisher [18th], William V. Pacelli [20th], George F. Barrett [21st], John T. Dempsey [33d], John J. McKeone [39th], James B. Waller [43d], and Max Landesman [46th].

HAND-IN-GLOVE WITH HISTORY

By CALEB

"MERCHANDISING," remarked one of our keen, young employes the other day, "had always seemed to me a drab affair of little imagination and no spirit. But during the Christmas holidays rush I was put into our basement glove section as a salesman. And this rather intriguing job had already given me an insight into the spirit of service and friendliness which imbues this store. As for the past history of gloves themselves — well, I straightway went to the city library, and found it more than satisfying.

"Did you know, for instance, that anthropologists have found traces of gloves even in Neolithic times? (On looking up Neolithic, we discovered it to be a time-period of some two hundred thousand years ago!) Or that Neanderthal men wore them in the pre-Ice Age era? Or that mediaevalists inform us of their presence among the Greeks? Or that Pliny the Younger speaks of his uncle ordering the use of gloves by his slaves? Or that the Odyssey mentions Laertes' scorn of the glove-wearing Persians?—and that gloves were considered effeminate until about the eighth century, when Charlemagne included gloves in the armoring of his men?"

No, we confessed, we had known none of these things; and begged him to continue. He then went on to tell us of the highly symbolic meaning of gloves as articles of dress during the Middle Ages; of how knights wore them on their helmets, as love-tokens for a lady, or as challenges to foes . . . whence came the term to "throw down the gauntlet." And when he ended his narrative with the reminder that Isaac Disraeli, father of the famous Benjamin, had written a comprehensive history of the glove, we glanced down at our hands and considered with a new appreciation what we had pulled on them that morning. . . .

"So you see," he concluded, "my merchandise has become an alluring personage. I have the satisfaction of knowing what I sell, and—I feel that I really belong in the Field selling organization." . . . To which tribute—more pleasing, if anything, for having come from within our organization—it would be superfluous to add any words or intimations of our own.

HITLER EXPECTS BILLION TO LET JEWS EMIGRATE

Nazis Hear Foreign Banks Will Advance Money.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 26.—Details for the emigration on a large scale of German Jews and Jews without nationality will be discussed in Berlin early in January by representatives of the International Refugee committee of thirty-two nations and the Nazi government, well informed circles said tonight.

It was added that the main obstacle in the way of wholesale Jewish emigration would be removed if, as reported, "foreign banks, especially those owned by Jews, have declared their willingness to advance 1 billion dollars or perhaps even 1 billion 200 million dollars" for this purpose. Jewish circles said they were unable to confirm these reports.

Goering Reports to Hitler.

The Nazi negotiations will be conducted by Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's staf which is supervising the four year plan for economic self-sufficiency. A special department of forty officials was formed to deal exclusively with the Jewish emigration problem. Goering reported to Adolf Hitler in detail on the present status of Jewish emigration before the Fuehrer departed for his Alpine residence in Berchtesgaden, Bavaria.

Nazi circles in Berlin were optimistic over plans for the mass emigration of Jews. They said the first group of Jews will leave Germany in April since "only technical matters remain to be settled." However, details regarding the scheme and the security which Germany is willing and able to give to the foreign banks furnishing the necessary foreign currencies were not disclosed.

The proposals of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, that Jewish emigration should be financed by increased purchases of German goods abroad were understood to have been received unfavorably by British financiers on the grounds that "this would put a premium on Jewish persecution in Germany." Schacht's plan also provides that rich emigrating Jews must help finance the emigration of poor Jews.

5,000 May Go to Canada.

Berlin Jewish leaders said the Canadian government is considering the admittance of 5,000 Jews—chiefly professional and technical men, skilled labor, farmers and businessmen. Jews expect a decision on the matter before the end of January.

Ambassador Hans Dieckhoff who was summoned to Berlin from Washington, D. C., as a reprisal for the return to the United States of Hugh R. Wilson, the American ambassador, reported to Hitler on the deterioration of German-American relations.

Nazi party circles were furious over the "diplomatic defeat" Germany suffered through the rejection by the United States government of Germany's protest against an anti-Nazi speech delivered by Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes before the Cleveland Zionist society Sunday, Dec. 18. Ickes called the Nazi treatment of Jews "bestial". The United States refused to apologize.

Nazi party members agitated for a rupture of diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany. The German public still was kept in the dark over Germany's protest and its rejection.

DANZIG ACCUSED OF FORCING OUT JEWS IN A POGROM

GENEVA, Dec. 26.—(AP)—The executive committee of the world Jewish congress today accused the government of the Free City of Danzig of organizing a pogrom to drive Jews out of the highly Nazified city.

Arrow locates Danzig.

The accusation was made in a telegram to foreign ministers of Great Britain, France, and Sweden. The foreign ministers of these nations are members of the league of nations committee of three on Danzig affairs.

The message demanded the league committee take energetic steps to end "the cruel persecution of Danzig Jews" as the league guarantees the constitution of the free city, which includes a clause promising equality of rights to all citizens.

"The government of the free city of Danzig has organized a pogrom," the telegram read, "and has introduced racial legislation, obliging finally the whole of the Jewish population to leave the free city in a short time, without the league having taken any action up to now."

Japs Begin "Mop Up"

(Story in adjoining column.)

Japanese reported yesterday they had won control of hilly regions near Linfen (1) in a drive to clean up Chinese irregulars in Shansi province. A Chinese attempt to recapture Fenglingtu (2) failed.

ASKS BAN ON JAP PURCHASE OF U. S. AIRPLANE WOODS

More Vital than Helium Embargo, Says Builder.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Japan's purchases are depleting the American supply of choice spruce, essential to the manufacture of light airplanes, according to Carl L. Friedlander, vice president of the Aeronautical Corporation of America, a Cincinnati concern, who today petitioned President Roosevelt for an embargo on export of the wood.

"The embargo enforced by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes on the exportation of helium to Germany for use in Zepplins was not nearly as important to the public welfare of the United States as the threat to our supply of choice spruce," Friedlander said.

The manufacturer added that "the growing exportation of choice spruce wood from the Pacific northwest to foreign nations, such as Japan, is presenting a serious menace to the public defense of the United States, besides endangering the manufacture of light aircraft in this country.

Japan Doubles Her Purchases.

"It is my understanding that the department of commerce has admitted that, during the first ten months of 1938, the official Japanese governmental lumber importing agency purchased 567,000 board feet of American spruce. This is an increase of 100 per cent over the Japanese purchases of 283,000 board feet during the full twelve months of 1937.

"The Japanese government restricts importation of lumber to that needed for military purposes. The increased purchases of American choice spruce are highly significant.

"Choice spruce is vital to the light aircraft development of the United States. Heavy exports of choice spruce to foreign countries, such as Japan, are a serious menace to the general welfare of the United States, providing ample ground for an immediate embargo on such exportations.

Fears "Throttle" on Building.

"Unless foreign purchasers are stopped from endeavoring to monopolize the spruce market, the prices will rise prohibitively and the supply available to American users will be drastically curtailed. This will present a virtual throttle on the manufacturers of light aircraft in this country, and halt the development of civil aviation in the private flying classification.

"The harm prospective to such an eventuality is not difficult to comprehend. 'Civil aviation consciousness' will be thwarted, and directly the military aviation development hampered."

ARAB REBELS KIDNAP BRITISH BANK MANAGER

JERUSALEM, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Rebellious Arabs today kidnaped a British bank manager, Louis Le Bouvier, near Jericho. The abduction was one of several Christmas disorders in the holy land in which four persons were killed and five injured.

A Royal Air Force armored car found Bouvier's abandoned automobile beside the Jerusalem-Jericho road.

Among the holy land murders was that of Yassin Jarallah, who was said to have been a liaison officer between Fakhri Bey Nashashibi, leader of Arab opposition to the rebel leader, the Grand Mufti, and the Emir Abdullah of Transjordan. For the second time within a week the home of Diab Nashashibi, a cousin of the opposition leader, was bombed and attacked.

JAPS BEGIN NEW SERIES OF YELLOW RIVER ATTACKS

Drive Started to Pacify Shansi Province.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 26.—(AP)—The Japanese, striving to pacify unconquered south Shansi province, in North China, announced today their forces had captured four towns and killed 600 Chinese in a new offensive.

They reported they had won control of hilly regions north of the Fen river radiating from Linfen, a city which lies about 60 miles east of the Yellow river and about 200 miles northwest of Kaifeng.

Severe fighting was reported under way near the juncture of Shansi, Shensi, and Honan provinces, near the point where the Yellow river turns eastward after flowing from the north.

The Chinese were reported to have attempted unsuccessfully to recapture Fenglingtu, opposite Tungkwan, about 175 miles southwest of Linfen. Japanese forces operating from Fenlingtu were said to be threatening to cut the east-west Lunghai railway and sever communications between Loyang and Sian.

"Truce" Meeting Rumored.

HONGKONG, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Reports that Wang Ching-wei, former president of the Chinese executive yuan, was en route to Hongkong to discuss "truce" terms with Japanese emissaries have caused lively discussion in diplomatic circles here.

First reports were that Wang, who is head of the so-called "peace party," would arrive today, but tonight his whereabouts was a mystery. He has left Chungking, provisional Chinese capital, on a "sick leave," and was supposed to be coming here by way of Hanoi, French Indo-China.

The reports of impending "truce" negotiations could not be confirmed. It was reported on good authority that Wang, as China's "peace party" leader, can be regarded as having a "definite" purpose in visiting Hanoi and possibly Hongkong aside from any need of medical attention. Beyond this only speculation is possible.

Mikado Opens Parliament.

TOKIO, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Emperor Hirohito opened the 74th Japanese diet today and in an imperial rescript commanded parliament to approve the 1939 budget, the largest in Japanese history, with special military expense estimates, "by taking into consideration the gravity of the present situation."

A portion of the emperor's decree said, "We deeply appreciate that the relations of the empire with its friendly powers are growing in amity. Our officers and men have conquered and pacified important areas in China by overcoming difficulties."

[The new budget, already approved by the cabinet, totals 3,694,752,000 yen—about $997,583,000. This does not include China war expenditures, for which there will be supplementary appropriations.]

STRONG FIGHTING FLEET TO REMAIN ON WEST COAST

San Pedro, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—A potent fighting force of 30 ships, including two airplane carriers, will stay on the west coast while the United States fleet stages its annual war games in the Atlantic early next year.

Admiral Bloch.

Admiral Claude C. Bloch, commander in chief, said today that the ships being left behind are those upon which regular overhauls will be due between the fleet's departure Jan. 4 and its scheduled return June 12.

They include the battleships Oklahoma, Arizona and Tennessee, the carriers Saratoga and Ranger, the heavy cruiser Vincennes, two light cruisers, 14 destroyers, two submarines and two destroyer tenders. First movement of fleet units toward the east coast will begin Wednesday.

WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE AS LAW MAKES HER A JEW

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Another suicide was added today to the list of persons who have ended their lives in protest against a proposed Hungarian law for the regulation of Jews.

The latest death was that of Irma Szabo, a well known woman physician. Police, who said she died of poisoning, listed the case as suicide. The woman was of Christian faith, but fell into the Jewish category under the legislation submitted to parliament by Premier Bela Imredi's government last Friday.

She left a note which said: "The law makes me a Jew. I was not born with Jewish mentality and if I cannot be Hungarian I prefer death."

MOST BALDNESS CAUSED BY 'GUESSING'

BALDNESS is preventable in about 90% of all cases. Most men become bald because they guess at the causes of their hair-loss and then apply guesswork lotions or treatments.

Thomas treatment effectively prevents baldness because it replaces guesswork with scientific accuracy and precision. When a Thomas expert examines your scalp he determines exactly which of the 14 local scalp disorders are causing, or have caused your loss of hair. He then directs the 20-year proved Thomas treatment to overcome those specific causes. Your abnormal hair-fall stops; your dandruff disappears; scalp itch ceases; and new hair starts to grow on the thin and bald spots.

Come in and learn more about this reliable method of scalp treatment. No charge is made for a complete scalp examination.

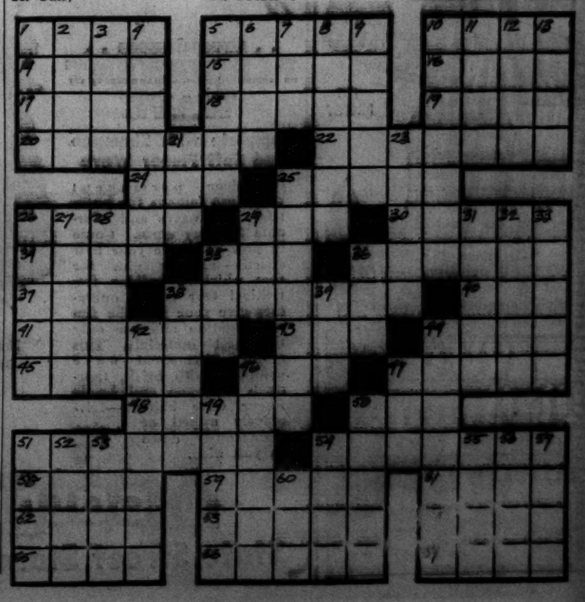
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



WAR BOMBINGS VEER ROOSEVELT TO BIG AIR FLEET

Experts Doubt Wisdom of Building 12,000 Planes.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26—[Special.]—The airplane has been assigned a heavy rôle in President Roosevelt's redefinition of American defense problems to include not only the United States and its possessions, but the entire western hemisphere.

It has been reported that Mr. Roosevelt will seek to step up the army air corps to 9,000 modern planes and the navy air force to 3,000 planes. This would make the United States the greatest air power in the world, with a strength of 12,000 fighting craft.

However, the wisdom of building such a vast number of planes, in view of the fact that aircraft become obsolete faster than any other weapon of war, is being questioned by army and navy high commands and by private industry.

Considered Superior In Power.

While it is acknowledged that the present American air force is inferior in strength to the reported powerful air forces of aggressor nations, the opinion of many experts is that a force of 12,000 planes is more than sufficient to meet any emergency this nation might have at home or in going to the defense of its American neighbors.

Throughout the world, American planes are considered superior in quality to any other, and America's facilities for manufacture are known to be far ahead of other powers. Yet the administration program would necessitate setting up, alongside existing private plants, military production plants which eventually might smother private industry.

It is felt that Mr. Roosevelt is being influenced toward the heavy air development program because the airplane is the most spectacular of all weapons of war, and because the bombing in China and Spain have brought home to civilized populations everywhere the horrors incident to war.

5,000 Viewed As Sufficient.

Also, planes have seven league boots and the wide range of their field of attack has been dramatized to accentuate the need for armament building in dictator nations.

Many within the army consider an air force of 3,000 planes sufficient and that the navy might have another 2,000 planes. They feel that in actual combat the present modern American planes could acquit themselves well against any foreign invasion.

The American army bombers of the flying fortress type startled the world in their amazing formation flight to South America, which came as an answer to what was, by comparison, a routine flight of Italian war planes to Rio De Janeiro. These bombers have a highly perfected sight which makes them far more accurate than those of any other nation and they can bomb at higher altitudes than foreign planes.

Faster Than Other Craft.

The army pursuit planes, for their tactical purpose, are the equal of their bombing colleagues. They are faster and more heavily armed than similar craft of other powers. The army also has developed a headquarters airplane from which the air staff can direct battles in the air instead of from headquarters on the ground. Army airplanes have had fewer accidents than craft of foreign powers. The navy has had a series of unfortunate air accidents, but these have been due largely to weather conditions, it is reported, although rumors of structural defects are current.

These rumors are employed as an argument against rapid construction of a combined fleet up to 12,000 planes. Structural defects would be more apt to develop in hasty production and be more costly than if orderly development is observed.

Experimentation Is Urged.

Many officers feel that it would be more advisable to put large sums into experimentation than to lump an appropriation into fast construction. Experimentation may render the 12,000 planes obsolete and bring development of superior craft which would reduce the outlay for a huge fleet to nothing more than waste.

In this connection the last congress voted 2 million dollars for experimentation with autogiros, largely for military purposes. Experts consider this a step in the right direction, although they hold the sum was inadequate because the windmill craft have a wide range of utility.

The combined army and navy air force at present runs to 4,000 planes, of which more than 2,000 are modern. Even as it stands, the air force is better prepared to meet a foe than the army and navy, and probably could defeat numerically superior fleets.

Must Keep Present Set-Up.

The present set-up of army combat aviation with the G. H. Q. air force in continental United States and separate wings in Panama and Hawaii obviously must remain intact, officers say, to protect our shores and possessions. Any additions to be sent out for the protection of neighbor nations must, it is felt, be separately organized.

"Continental solidarity" development would necessitate new bases which the President is reported to be contemplating. It also would require additional training facilities, increased personnel and additional equipment in the form of machine shops, service trucks and other similar ground equipment, to say nothing of arms and ammunition.

No union of the army and navy air forces, such as exists abroad, is contemplated. Most impartial experts are agreed that at present, and for the immediate future, the existing division of responsibilities between the army and the navy is suited particularly to our geographical and strategic position.

Such a union might reduce the ground forces required to keep a plane in the air. The army estimates it requires an average 10.1 enlisted men and 3 officers on the ground to keep army planes—from small pursuit craft to the mighty bombers—in the air. The navy has no estimate, as duties of air crews at sea are divided between the personnel of surface craft and personnel of the squadrons.

4 PERSONS HURT IN BLAST CAUSED BY FIRECRACKER

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 26.—(AP)—A penny firecracker touched off a blast today that destroyed an automobile repair shop, shook the downtown section, and provided the city with its most spectacular blaze in months. L. B. Taylor, owner of the repair shop, Horace White of Coleman Falls, his wife, Elizabeth, and Fred Gotschall were injured.

Taylor said the fire started when Gotschall, standing in the doorway of a storage house containing fireworks, owned by Taylor, set off the firecracker. The cracker dropped to the floor, Taylor said, and a terrific explosion followed.

Taylor, White, and the latter's wife were taken to a hospital where their burns were described as serious.

FINNS AND REDS SETTLE QUESTION OF THEIR BORDER

MOSCOW, Dec. 26.—(AP)—An official announcement tonight said an exchange of notes had approved documents and maps defining and marking the 600 mile frontier between Finland and soviet Russia.

The notes exchanged by Vladimir P. Potemkin, assistant commissar of foreign affairs, and the Finnish minister, Baroh Yrjo Koskinen, approved the border demarcation drafted by a soviet-Finnish commission.

Formerly a part of czarist Russia, Finland proclaimed her independence and suppressed a communist movement after the bolshevist revolution. Finland frequently has protested alleged violations of her border by soviet fighting planes. There have been occasional border clashes. In 1932 Finland and the soviet signed a three year nonaggression treaty which guaranteed the existing frontier as established by the 1920 Treaty of Dorpat. The Dorpat treaty recognized Finland's independence, declared an end to hostilities and ceded to Finland an outlet to the Arctic ocean. In 1937 Rudolph Holsti, then Finnish foreign minister, visited Moscow and concluded a "good neighbor" treaty.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

Watch Insect Attacks

Dec. 26, 1938.

SHADE TREES at the Du Page county farm are closely watched summer and winter for attacks of disease and insects. Gardeners have found that valuable trees usually can be protected against injury and kept in thrifty condition with comparatively little work and expense if they are never neglected and are given needed care at the right time.

Winter jobs include fertilizing trees that made weak growth during the previous summer and pruning those with poorly shaped tops. Keeping the trees in good growing condition has proved the best protection against disease and insect attacks.

Many of the shade trees at the farm are elms and are subject to elm wilt, a disease that has caused the loss of many fine old trees in this region during recent years.

How to Control Wilt.

A simple means of controlling elm wilt is followed. It appears to be entirely successful and consists of pruning out infected branches and fertilizing the trees in summer to stimulate quick, healthy growth.

The first appearance of elm wilt noticed at the farm was in July, 1937, when many of the branches of a small elm started to wilt. The tree was about a foot thick. The disease was identified when some of the infected wood was examined in a laboratory.

Treatment was begun at once. All diseased branches were cut back beyond any discoloration of the wood. The tools used were dipped in a solution of corrosive sublimate to thoroughly disinfect them after each cut was made. This was done to guard against infecting sound wood.

Fertilized with Nitrogen.

When all the wilted branches had been cut away the tree was fertilized with a complete tree food containing 10 per cent nitrogen. This was applied in August, together with some well rotted cow manure. Both fertilizers were thoroughly soaked into the soil with a garden hose.

The tree apparently has made a complete recovery. It showed no sign of wilt this year and now is the best of an entire group of elms, all set at the same time.

Another elm at the farm was attacked by wilt this year. It was given the pruning and fertilizer treatment in August and appears to have recovered. Growth was stimulated by the fertilizers. The leaves remained green longer this fall than those on the other elms. Elm wilt often is confused with Dutch elm disease, but scientists say they are different.

THE COMMUNIST FRONT IN AMERICA.

The communist front in the United States is composed of many elements almost as diversified as the constituents of the Russian revolution of February, 1917, which were unified by the devouring and liquidating capacity of the bolsheviks. In that process of survival of the most ferocious, the heterogeneous mixture of adventurers, reformists, intellectuals, and liberals went into a crucible prepared for them and disappeared.

The American front is led by the communist agents of the Stalin dictatorship and the Third International. They direct the management of the American communist party. Much of their propaganda work is directly subsidized by the soviet government and is directed to two ends: first, the support of the New Deal in its domestic socialistic program and the exploitation of the C. I. O. for industrial disorder; second, the procuring of American aid for Russia against its military enemies.

The persons who direct the activities of the American communist party would be the commissars to take over the government of the American people if the highest hopes of communism could be brought to realization by a prolonged failure of private enterprise in the United States, attended by increasing destitution and the imminence or the fact of bankrupt government.

In the national debt, in the growth of government socialism, in the prostration of private investment, in the development of class hatreds, and in the increase of punitive and destructive taxation, the American commissars find encouragement to believe that revolutionary conditions have been created and can be exploited. This communist vanguard, for which the Stalin government has just issued a textbook of instructions, is trained and disciplined and has revealed within the last two years a capacity for adjusting itself to the realities of American political action and the probability of American behavior. It is no longer an intransigent terrorist aggregation but a party which in fact is less radical in appearance than many of the organizations which it inspires and behind which it hides as the motivating genius. Although the entire party membership in the United States is only about 100,000, party affiliations mean more than an ordinary political attachment. The communist party is like an army of top sergeants and subalterns. As a party of active workers it is actually in the class of the two major parties.

The support for this vanguard is given by thousands, actuated by a variety of influences. Some are persons who would welcome a revolution for their own profit, for the chance to destroy private ownership of property and enrich themselves. There are other thousands of persons, either discouraged by the politically prolonged depression or thoughtlessly convinced that what they call capitalism is passing into its last stage, as predicted by the Marxians, and is about to be supplanted by another order of society. The idea is that this is the last cycle of capitalistic evolution, the last era of democratic society. In this following the range of human nature runs from primitive viciousness to deluded social thinking, the mass being influenced by stimulated class hatreds, disappointed desires, intimations of personal incapacity in the competitive system, and longing for a better world.

So long as the depression can be prolonged, so long as millions of people are forced to look to a blundering government for subsistence, so long as private enterprise is prevented from accomplishing its purposes, the numbers of people who for one reason or another will support a revolutionary change will increase. Upon those prospects communist hopes are built.

Other elements in the communist front are people of the feminine type who enjoy the thrill which comes from playing with fire. Amounting to little in the movement, they lend it a well dressed aspect. The crafty vanguard appraises the intellectual fringe at its true worth but realizes that with it comes a certain respectability. The communist tradition derived from the experience of the Russian revolution teaches that these people, the pseudo philosophers and doctrinaires, are valuable in the preliminaries of revolution because they give a vogue to ideas which penetrate into the very classes to be destroyed later. Without the help of the Russian intellectuals, the students and professors, bourgeois philosophers and parlor revolutionaries, the bolsheviki would never have been able to lead their activists into the streets of Petrograd and Moscow. They had received more than moral and intellectual support from the classes they were about to destroy. They had been given financial help by radical Russian industrialists, who probably resented the assumed superiority of the nobles.

American communism receives the support of a literary class here which thinks that American democratic motivization is outmoded and unintelligent. These writing people have numerous outlets provided in radical magazines owned by people of the feminine type who employ inherited wealth to attack the source of it, an odd sort of snobbery which gratifies itself in pretentious contempt of the source from which it arose. Although numerically the communist party is proportionately stronger in Chicago than elsewhere in the country, the center of foolish intellectual arrogance is in New York.

With true instincts for the point of greatest vantage, the active communists have poured into John Lewis' C. I. O., where they found the greatest opportunity for direct action, being supported in this affiliation by many departments of the New Deal government. The activities of these revolutionaries will be fully covered in the forthcoming report of the Dies committee containing exhibits of the actual events of the last two years. Unscrupulous politicians who will take votes wherever they can get them accepted the coöperation of the communist vanguard and served its doctrins, thinking that thus they made the most profitable appeal to the discontent caused by the depression and the hatreds aroused by the New Deal voicing of prejudice and passion.

With such a composition the communist front has tried to tear down the economic organization in the country in the last two years. It has succeeded in developing a socialist scheme of government competition with private enterprise which has stopped a large volume of private investment. It has succeeded in fastening industrial restrictions upon the country and it has forced the adoption of punitive taxes which further discourage expansion and recovery and which drain the resources of the country into profitless government undertakings, increasing the number of dependents and destroying the country's morale.

Although the communist front met severe reverses in the November election and lost its commanding position in many states, the revolutionaries will struggle desperately in the coming months to prevent a reform of the laws they have forced on the country in the hope that a prolongation of the misery they have created will continue the revolutionary conditions and force the acceptance of socialism as the only way out of an intolerable situation.

ARE THE TWO BILLION STILL THERE?

When the government compelled all the people and all the banks to turn over their gold the holders received paper money in payment. The President thereupon proclaimed that each gold dollar was worth $1.69. With a 69 cent profit on each dollar of gold held the government realized a paper profit of 2 billion 880 million dollars.

What has happened to that profit is of interest to everybody. We know that 300 millions went into the treasury and was spent. We also know that 675 millions was used to pay off two little bond issues, including the one we put out at the time we built the Panama canal. The balance, the big item, totaling 1 billion 800 millions, was given to the secretary of the treasury to do almost anything he wanted with it. The general idea seemed to be that he was going to use it to stabilize the dollar for a short period after the revaluation.

The thought was that it might take as much as two years to get the dollar in its new international groove. And so the fund was given to the secretary to control for two years unless the President should terminate it at an earlier date or should use the power given him to extend it by proclamation for an additional year.

The dollar didn't seem to have any trouble holding its head up, but the President used his authority to extend control for the extra year, and when that was drawing to a close he asked congress to extend it for two more years. The present authority lasts until June 30, 1939.

Thus the secretary of the treasury has had nearly 2 billion dollars to play with for nearly five years. He has had this fund to use as he saw fit, subject only to orders from the President. No accounting has even been made.

No officer should have discretionary control over 2 billion dollars or any substantial fraction of such amount. To allow billions of dollars to be handled like a petty cash fund is outrageous. Congress should refuse to extend the life of the fund beyond June 30 of next year and should require that the public be informed after a thoroughgoing and impartial audit how much is in the fund and what the transactions for the last five years have been.

MR. HOPKINS AS SECRETARY OF COMMERCE.

When Harry Hopkins was mentioned as the probable successor of Mr. Roper as secretary of commerce the forecast was accepted as almost inevitably right. The inconcinnity was perfect and therefore the choice was almost imperative. If the post of secretary of commerce is to be thought of as requiring anything but a stuffed shirt Mr. Hopkins was the most ineligible man of Mr. Roosevelt's acquaintance and therefore would get the place.

As head of the WPA the new appointee qualified for a business job by learning to spend more money to less purpose than any American before ever handled for any purpose. His other qualification is a liking for Long Island society. Nothing in the New Deal requires that a radical reformist and humanitarian cut himself off from the pleasures of wealth. He may have three automobiles, put Roman baths of marble in his offices, command the United States medical service to cure his tummyaches, and go about his affairs through double lines of hat touching major domos. Mr. Hopkins is not the only doer of good who has worked the social security racket and the social register at the same time.

His appointment was dictated by more than his marked unfitness for any job remotely connected with the nation's business. The WPA is in for a congressional scorching which will take all its pretenses off its skeleton and reveal what a political vote buying machine it has been. Mr. Hopkins is a great friend of the White House and friendship suggests that he be taken off the fire. Congress can put him back on again, even if he is in a new job, but he may think that it will help some if he can get off the stove now.

EFFICIENCY IF THE KEYNOTE.

[Detroit News.]

Members of the Massachusetts legislature seem to have been put on the spot by a mandatory vote. They've got to fix up some sort of a law regulating employment of married women. They have a little sensible leeway—they are to bar from public service only women whose husbands are able to support them.

From the point of view of economic welfare, any such restriction is preposterous. If it were required of employers generally, it would mean that, for reasons with which the business is not concerned, even most trusted and efficient women employes would have to be fired if they married. There would be a constant rejection of trained helpers and replacement with new material that would require training and adaptation.

Well, says the Linemaster, talking to himself and his dog, that was a fine two-and-a-half days' vacation. We are pleased to report that we have steered a conservative course among the wassail bowls; that Santa Claus arrived as usual; that Christmas Eve was gay, Christmas Day happy, and the day after peaceful. A Puzzle for Poe Scholars.

In 1901 Dr. W. A. P. Martin, president of the Imperial university of Peking, published an English translation of a poem written by a certain Kia Yi, a high Chinese official, in 200 B. C. The verses sound as if Kia Yi had been reading Edgar Allan Poe's "The Raven," written twenty centuries later. Dr. Martin may have high-lighted the parallel in the phrasing of his translation, but the coincidence has been worrying That Fella Down in Streator for years. He sits up nights wondering if Poe could read Chinese or was the reincarnation of an ancient mandarin.

Referin', of course, to Mr. Bakrak's very pale complexion, alongside of which any ghost would look the picture of health. In fact, many a discouraged undertaker has passed him on the street an' then decided to stay in business a while longer. I ain't fergitting the dark, stormy night the duke took a short cut thru an alley an' bumped into Dracula, Frankenstein, an' King Kong walkin' arm in arm. They takes one quick slant at him an' climbs a tree. "I don't mind gitting a good scare," sez Frankenstein to the shivering Dracula, "but there otto be a law against anything like that! It looked like a double feature horror program with a hat on!"

But what I wanted to say was: Last Sunday morning Mr. Bakrak was sittin' on the davenport in his living room, all dressed up an' no place to pull a sneak, on account the taverns don't open till one o'clock. As he sat there merrily jingling a pocketful of coins [having just discovered, after a 2 weeks' search, where his little daughter keeps her pigbank hid] he glanced down, sees the Comic Section of the Trib lying on the floor, an' decides to look at it, even if no one is there to read him what it sez. So he bends over to git it an' ZAM! ! Sharp, stabbin' pains in his right side!

"Help, help!" squeaks our hero, rolling back on the davenport an' moaning like a lost soul [or should I say "a loose heel"?]. "Git me a doctor, quick! I got appendicitis! I'm dying!" So his wife dashes in from the back porch an' massages his side, only he hollers louder than ever. Then she takes a fast windup an' curves a few aspirin tablets past his tonsils, after which she phones for the M. D.

The doc arrives, loosens the duke's clothes, an after a one minute examination he sez: "Lissen, Dope, you wouldn't have any sharp, stabbing pains if, the next time you put on a brand new shirt, you take all the pins out!"

An' was the duke's face cream colored! [Which is as close to "red" as he can manage.]

TO AN OLD STAIRCASE.

(Formerly in a London house and now in the Chicago Art institute.)

Whose were the feet that lightly trod your steps
To meet a lover in the hall below?
Whose was the hand that rested on your rail?
No use to ask, for we shall never know.
Into the dark have gone the happy ghosts
Of ardent suitor and of maiden fair;
There is a curtain drawn twixt them and us
And we can only see the empty stair.

Prince Edward's Elm.

Your comment about the Old Lombard Elm [12-13-'38] brings to mind a towering elm, 78 years old, known as Prince Edward's tree, in Dwight, Ill. In August, 1860, the prince of Wales, then 19 years old, later King Edward VII., came to the United States. On Sept. 22, while en route from Chicago to St. Louis, he stopped at Dwight for a several days' hunting trip, on what was known then as the Grand Prairie.

The prince was quartered at a house, just north of the village, owned by James Spencer of Chicago, who used the place as a hunting lodge. Prince Edward and his party came on a Saturday, and the next Wednesday, when they left, the prince planted an elm sapling on the Spencer farm. Since that time the tree has flourished.

BAD BEHAVIOR OF THE COLON.

A CONSIDERABLE number of ailments are started because various parts of the body cannot always accommodate themselves to circumstances. Even a new automobile has to be broken in and, with some persons, the feel of a new hat, suit, gown, or pair of shoes may prove mildly irritating until after they become accustomed to the fit. In other words, we are adapting ourselves constantly to outside and inside influences.

But adjustments can be made only when affairs proceed in an orderly manner. If we disregard the rules of health, trouble may ensue. For example, the digestive tract may evince unruly tendencies if stimulated to do so. We cannot expect the colon to remain courteous and complacent always if we are continually insulting it. If constipation, diarrhea, pain, or gas and fermentation are present, the chances are that we are at fault. Even the condition termed mucous colitis is merely an evidence that the secretions of the bowel wall are disturbed. Let us look at some of the causes.

In the first place there is no excuse for the so-called roughage fad. The very construction of the alimentary tube should tell us that we cannot consume great loads of indigestible substances week after week. When it becomes packed within the colon we have no right to complain should a dull ache, occasioned by distention, fall to our lot. Were we designed by nature to handle such a mass of fiber [cellulose] the muscular coats of the intestine would be much thicker and far more powerful.

It is difficult to determine just why the laxative habit has become so fixed in the public mind unless it is due to indifference or inherent laziness. Worse than whips, their habitual use develops the spastic colon with its chain of symptoms, including abdominal pain, nervous irritability, and a feeling of fullness. Likewise enemas and the pernicious practice of using irrigations are equally harmful when resorted to routinely. If every one responded to the normal urge to empty the bowel he would soon educate the eliminating tract.

We are exceedingly sensitive to the behavior of our "insides" and I am sure that a great many breakdowns in general health, with loss of weight, anemia, and weakness come about because of bad bowel deportment. The cycle may be inaugurated by worry, loss of sleep, or overwork. Instead of treating the colon more kindly we attack it with a sharp tined pitchfork—a purgative. In consequence, many nutritive elements that should have been absorbed are lost. Weakness is an aftermath because of the drop in reserve and some patients are thus launched on the road to nervous exhaustion.

The first requisite in treatment is a better understanding of a few simple rules. This, coupled with rest and reassurance, will win the battle. Emotions must be calmed, otherwise the sufferer may become a confirmed neurotic with a symptom in every part of his anatomy. The physician will make certain first that there is no organic disease. The victim may then be told frankly and definitly that recovery is not only possible but certain to come and that diet is the prime essential.

Standard directions may embrace such procedures as a glass or two of warm water twenty to thirty minutes before breakfast—or weak tea may be substituted. If there is nothing wrong with starch digestion—and, in most instances, this will be normal—the plan for the first two or three days includes soft foods, entirely free from débris, such as cream of wheat, eggs, rice, and milk. This is followed by the addition of one portion per day of some more substantial dishes. Within ten days the patient should be on a regular balanced menu with enough calories to maintain weight—if none has been lost—or to gain weight if a reduction has occurred.

Now and then the physician will find it helpful to prescribe a light sedative or even a small dose of belladonna for the purpose of relaxing the muscular tension which has been set up by long standing irritation.

[A leaflet on functional disorders of the colon is now ready. Send a stamped addressed envelope for this together with sample menus.]

DRY SKIN.

Mrs. D. writes: Why is my skin so dry? My lips are always peeling and my feet are especially dry. What can I do for this condition?

REPLY.

Dry skin may come about because the thyroid is not sufficiently active. A common cause includes too little secretion from the normal oil glands. This in turn may result from poor circulation, anemia, the use of irritating soaps, or dry air in the home. Occasionally rough clothing is responsible while chilling has a tendency to contract the skin capillaries thus throwing out of balance all of the glands. Massage the parts with cocoa butter or cold cream at least once daily.

NINE SWALLOWS OF WATER.

Mrs. H. S. writes:

1. If cod liver oil is mixed with orange juice does either lose its vitamins?
2. What is the best way to stop hiccup in a baby?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. Permitting the child to belch may bring relief. Drinking water is of benefit. The old rule—take nine swallows of water—is a good one. Since the condition is of no particular significance in infants, usually nothing need be done.

CONCERNING BUTTERMILK.

J. R. writes:

1. What vitamins and minerals does buttermilk possess?
2. Is buttermilk reducing?
3. Is a quart daily too much?

REPLY.

1. The minerals include phosphorus, calcium, and iron; while the vitamins are A, B, D, and possibly C.
2. Buttermilk supplies about half the number of calories of whole milk.
3. No.

WASHING REMOVES GERMS.

L. L. writes: Does washing an open wound with soap and water tend to push germs deeper into the skin?

REPLY.

Quite the contrary. The procedure will remove them. Although tissues require gentle handling, even lacerated parts may be scrubbed thoroughly. This is of prime importance and is the best type of first aid.

OIL PROSPECTING IN ILLINOIS.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—From time to time I have noticed articles in your paper concerning the oil activity in Egypt in southern Illinois, but I wonder if the remarkable activity in this state is not entitled to more publicity than you have given it. Your paper not only goes to Chicagoans but covers a big field all over the United States and it seems to me that Illinois is entitled to more consideration and publicity than it is getting for the reason that this new development in Illinois is one of the greatest things that ever happened in this state.

Of course it is not of particular interest to Chicagoans, but a lot of them would be interested in knowing that Illinois has more wells drilling today than all other oil fields in the United States combined, and when you consider that this covers Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Louisiana, you will realize that Illinois has something to shout about and we should be telling it to the whole world. Would you believe that we have three times as many oil wells drilling as the entire state of Texas, five times as many as New Mexico, six times as many as in Kansas, seven times as many as in Louisiana and Arkansas combined, eleven times as many as in Oklahoma, twenty-six times as many as in Michigan and thirty-five times more than in California, and these are the principal fields in the United States?

This oil activity is bringing in millions and millions of dollars to this state and every week activity increases. It would mean more to the people of this state to tell them about its wonders than to print a little story about somebody who stubs his toe in China or some other story with as little interest to the general public.

THE TWO ROOSEVELTS.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—In the letter of Edward T. Lee in THE TRIBUNE enumerating several reasons why Franklin D. Roosevelt often appeals to the memory and works of Theodore Roosevelt as a warant for his own course he failed to mention the chief reason. That is that Theodore also undertook to break down the judiciary of the constitution. By a proposal to "recall" the decisions of the courts by the voters at the polls, who could, of course, have no knowledge of the facts or law of any case, he would have enabled the majority to boot away the barriers raised in the constitution for the protection of the minority.

GOOD, CLEAN OPPOSITION.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—As I am not politically minded I can assume that there are good Democrats as well as good Republicans. As a voter I am a believer in good, clean opposition, but I for one hate and detest your unrelenting campaign of unfair and dirty mud slinging at our President and his administration, particularly those cartoons of the jungle stories. Then again I hope you continue your tactics simply because that is one reason why Chicago voted Democratic in the last election. THE TRIBUNE is the greatest newspaper in the world for the Democrats.

FOR THE COLOR BLIND.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—Let's make the future safer for autoists and pedestrians.

How about making all stop lights identical in color arrangements? This will surely enable the color blind drivers to avoid light jumping. These drivers can learn the plan of the lights and keep streets safer. Changing the colors—glass or bulbs—is a very simple plan.

NATHAN WEINER.

CHARITY AT WARM SPRINGS.

Wheaton, Ill., Dec. 21.—Just recently a friend who lives in a nearby state told me of a prominent judge there whose son had infantile paralysis and was taken to the Roosevelt sanitarium at Warm Springs, Ga. He reports that the accommodations are good enough, but there are no charity cases at all. Now where is all the money being used that was raised at the Roosevelt birthday dances?

A. G. DOBBINS.

WHISTLING AT WORK.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—Salisbury complains about a fellow worker who "whistles while he works." This worker evidently leads a life that brings joy to others and in turn to himself and he expresses this joy audibly. A grouch was never known to sing. What makes this such a good old world in which to live is the fact that we have more hummers and whistlers than hammer throwers.

J. W. B.

FOUR CAR TRAINS.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—I also should like to know who is responsible for the three or four car elevated trains on the Howard avenue line on Saturday mornings? It is invariably conducive to the utmost in discomfort for the passengers. And why don't trains stop at Quincy and Wells? All trains stop south of Jackson, necessitating a long platform walk. Somebody trying to make it tough for us all?

ARGYLE.

THE DIES INQUIRY.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—Representative Dies should have authority to compel appearance before his committee of President Roosevelt and administration leaders. Their action, as well as their inaction, proves them guilty not alone of un-American activities but also of un-American inactivities. And meanwhile the communists are boring from within.

PROBATE ESTATE.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Several people are beneficiaries of a will. Two of these people had previously received cash outlays before the death of the deceased, which money was to be deducted from their share of the bequests. The larger part of the will is money received from leased property. The persons receiving the outlays have reason to believe that enough has been made from the estate property to take care of these demands and for further recompense to be made, but no statements have been made.

1. Is it possible to force the administrator to give a financial statement for as far back as fifteen or twenty years and to the present date? How does one proceed?
2. Is it necessary to employ the services of a lawyer or does the city or state have a bureau giving such aid?

M. N.

1. Ordinarily a probate estate should be closed shortly after the expiration of the period allowed for filing claims. In addition, the administrator as such does not necessarily have anything to do with the management of real estate. We cannot advise to advantage without knowing whether the parties against whom you would proceed are still acting as administrators or as trustees.
2. We advise you to go over your facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CONTRACT BY MINOR.

Evanston, Ill., Dec. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am 19 years old and am employed. While at work a salesman for a jewelry concern approached me with a watch. I told him I couldn't buy the watch unless I asked my mother, so he said, take the watch and show it to your mother, but you have to sign for permission so I can show you have the watch, and I will call you later [which he never did]. Now I received a letter from the jewelry company showing a dollar paid on the contract which I never paid and telling me my next payment is due Nov. 23. I did not read what I signed. Now it appears that I signed a contract.

1. Is this contract binding?
2. Can my wages be garnisheed?
3. I sent the watch back, but they refused to accept it. What can I do about this?

B. B.

1. If you were an adult the contract would be binding upon you, since it is presumed that a person who is able to read has read and understood a document he has signed, but on the facts stated your minority is a defense for liability on the contract.
2. Garnishment would not be in order until the creditor has obtained judgment against you, and the minority defense should prevent him from obtaining judgment.
3. Notify them that you are keeping your tender good, and are ready to deliver it to them at any time.

Triangle Club Adds to Gayety of Buds Today

The day that the Princeton Triangle club plays in Chicago traditionally is the gayest day of the holiday season. It means that about four score attractive young men are added to the stag lines at debut parties. It means dozens of dinner and theater parties for the younger set. It means family reunions for the Trianglers who are Chicagoans, and a gathering of Princeton alumni, too.

A generation ago Princeton Triangle club audiences were entertained by "bunny hug" and "grizzly bear" dance routines. In 1927 a spectacular chorus on skis stopped the show. The dance that is the hit of the club's 50th anniversary show is a roller skating invention, calculated to make the Civic Opera house ring with laughter tonight. "Once Over Lightly" is the name the club has given the show.

The debutantes of the season will meet the Trianglers this afternoon at a tea-dance Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Seipp and Edwin A. Seipp Jr. are giving at the Casino for Miss Melita Uihelein Seipp of Middleburg, Va. They will resume their dancing tonight following the performance at a ball Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Peace are giving at the Blackstone hotel for their debutante daughter, Miss Sara Peace.

Miss Seipp and her father, William Seipp, and Mrs. Seipp, have come to Chicago for Christmas week, and are staying at the Ambassador East hotel. Young Mr. Seipp, a cousin of Miss Seipp, is a member of the Triangle club. The Edwin Seipps' daughter, Mrs. William B. Goltra, is returning for the party from St. Louis where she and Mr. Goltra went to spend Christmas with his family.

A few of Mrs. Goltra's friends have been invited to the tea-dance, for which a swing orchestra has come from Texas to play. The party, scheduled for 4 until 7 o'clock, will get under way early, for the Trianglers will have to leave promptly to prepare for the performance.

Many members of the audience will attend dinner parties before the performance and all except the youngest and oldest, will be prepared to go dancing afterwards if not at the Peace ball, then at some hotel or club. Mrs. William K. Kenly is giving a dinner at the Casino for her sub-deb granddaughter, Mary Ann Wyman, taking her young guests on to dance after the show. The John F. Jelkes are entertaining for Mary Louanns Jelke.

Mrs. John G. Ralston is giving a dinner for her sub-debutante, Joan, also at the Casino. The Gorton Fauntleroys are entertaining at dinner and the Triangle for Miss Betty Morton and William D. Bangs, who are to be married tomorrow. The Arthur Hedlys are giving a party for their subdeb, Madeline; the Rawleigh Warners are giving one for their Susan, the William J. Stensons are entertaining for their bud, Miss Katherine Stenson; the Edward D. Shumways, the T. Albert Potters, the R. Douglas Stuarts, the Ralph H. Pooles, the John C. Pitchers, the Freeman Hinckleys and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Zeiss and Mr. and Mrs. William S. Elliott are others entertaining at the performance.

Those who have taken boxes include Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick, Mrs. William O. Goodman, Mrs. Robert C. Orr, the Lucius B. Mannings, Miss Gwethalyn Jones, the Charles F. Glores, the Gilbert Scribners, the Fowler McCormicks, and the Eugene Howards. Two former Trianglers now known on stage and screen, Philip Holmes and Nick Foran, who both are in Chicago, will be especial guests at the show.

Six Debutantes Make Bows at Holiday Parties

That white is the color preferred by debutantes this season was supported by each of the six debutantes for whom parties were given yesterday, for all wore white gowns.

Receiving together at a tea-dance at the Indian Hill club in the afternoon, Miss Marie Louise Richards, Miss Nancy Dammann, and Miss Jane Cheney were in variations on the white theme. Their flowers were rubrum lilies.

Bouffant white tulle was becoming to Miss Betty Mead, for whom her parents, the Edward H. Bennetts, entertained at a dinner dance last night at the Blackstone hotel. The party was given also for Edward H. Bennett Jr., a Harvard student, and was gay and Christmas-y, with Christmas greens and gold candles in the ballroom. Instead of wearing flowers Miss Mead carried a bouquet of gardenias. Her mother wore pale gray chiffon.

Miss Jane Zimmerman and Miss Mary Louise Corley, who attended the Bennett party, left early to change into the gowns in which they bowed at a supper dance at the Casino, given by their parents, the Frederick D. Corleys and the Earle J. Zimmermans. Miss Zimmerman's gown was of white tulle over silver; Miss Corley's also was of tulle, trimmed with white and pink sequins. The buds carried bouquets of white camelias, tied with silver leaves.

The Casino ballroom was transformed into a modern rather than a Christmas setting by tall trees of silvered fronds, indirectly lighted, placed between the columns surrounding the dance floor.

Miss Edith Farwell, Miss Adelaide Chatfield Taylor, and Roger K. Ballard Jr. have been invited to attend the debut ball that President and Mrs. Roosevelt are giving for Mrs. Roosevelt's niece, Miss Eleanor Roosevelt, tonight at the White House.

Miss Farwell, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Farwell of Lake Forest, left yesterday for Washington to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Chatfield Taylor. She will leave for home tomorrow. Miss Farwell's mother and Miss Roosevelt's mother, Mrs. John Cutter, are old school friends.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Houghteling are giving a dinner for Miss Taylor in their Washington home tonight before the dance.

The Housewife

As a great many housewives have come to use glass window shelves to display pieces of lovely colored glass or plants you'll be interested to know there is a new type of window bracket on the market. It consists of a six inch glass shelf 36 inches long and it rests on extended ivory toned brackets in such a manner that curtains and draperies are not interfered with, but form a pleasing background for any objects placed on the shelf.

So, if you wish to keep your curtains drawn, you can make use of this new window shelf. It won't interfere. This holds true of Venetian blinds, also. The shelf will come in front of the blinds. A woman in Cedar Rapids, Ia., is the inventor of this practical device. EDITH WEIGLE.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. James Louis Vollintine of Hindale announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Suzanne, to Hugh Lowdon Rathburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle C. Rathburn of Lincoln, Neb.

Miss Margaret Wiley Engaged to Young Carr

BY JUDITH CASS.

AMONG the engagement announcements made over the long Christmas week-end is one that will come as a surprise to most of the friends of the young people concerned. It is the announcement Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Morris Wiley are making of the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Morris, to Robert Adams Carr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Carr.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiley did not give a party to announce the engagement, but the two families heard the romantic news at a family Christmas dinner given by Robert F. Carr, Mr. Carr's uncle. Miss Wiley made her debut in 1931 with her elder sister, Virginia, now Mrs. Alexander Persons of Worcester, Mass. She attended Sarah Lawrence college, and is a member of the Chicago Junior league.

Mr. Carr is a graduate of the University of Chicago. The wedding will take place in the spring.

Katherine Young Will Be Bride of J. S. Cromelin.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hardie Young of 1448 Lake Shore drive announced the engagement of their daughter, Katherine Lawrence, to John Stafford Cromelin, son of Mrs. Paul Cromelin of Washington, D. C. The wedding will take place early in the spring.

Miss Young is a graduate of Dobbs Ferry. Her fiance, an architect, is a graduate of Princeton university and of the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris. He was a member of the large committee in charge of the Architects' Hollywood ball held earlier this month at the Drake hotel.

Reveal Engagement of Charlotte McCarroll.

At a tea at home in Dearborn, Mich., yesterday Mr. and Mrs. R. Hudson McCarroll announced the engagement of their daughter, Charlotte Jane, to Charles Ridgely Vincent Jr., son of Col. Charles R. Vincent of 629 Wrightwood avenue.

Miss McCarroll is a graduate of Stuart hall and attended Dennison university. Mr. Vincent attended the Phillips Exeter academy and was graduated from the Francis Parker school and from Dennison. No date has been set for the wedding.

Katharine Whitaker to Become Bride.

Capt. Reginald Whitaker, corps of engineers, United States army, and Mrs. Whitaker, of Evanston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Katharine Mary, to Cadet William Calvin Banning, United States Military academy, 1939.

Miss Whitaker is a student at Northwestern university. Cadet Banning is the son of Kendall Banning, the writer, and Mrs. Banning, of Old Lyme, Conn.

Capt. and Mrs. Whitaker are entertaining from 5 until 7 o'clock this afternoon in their home, 1213 Michigan avenue, for their daughter and Cadet Banning, who is visiting the Whitakers.

Galt-Rickcords Nuptials Today.

The wedding of Miss Anne Rickcords and William C. Galt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Galt of Astor street, will take place at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Stanley Rickcords, in State parkway. The Rev. Duncan Browne will officiate. A few friends have been invited to the reception.

The bride will be attended by her two cousins, the Misses Jessica and Elizabeth Hambleton, and the bridegroom will have his two brothers, Arthur T. Galt Jr. and Raymond Galt, as attendants.

English Union Tea for Sir Cedric Hardwicke.

One of the most interesting tea parties of the winter is the one the English-Speaking union is giving at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Arts club. The tea is for Sir Cedric Hardwicke, the noted English actor, who is playing in "Shadow and Substance" at the Selwyn theater. This is the actor's first visit to Chicago.

Mrs. Samuel M. Rinaker, wife of the president of the union, will head the receiving line. Sir Cedric will receive, too, and later he will speak.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin Ellis of Glencoe are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter, Sharon, last Tuesday at the Evanston hospital. The baby, who has an elder sister, Lynn, 5 years old, is a niece of the W. Burton and R. Winfield Ellises. Her mother was formerly Ione Judson of Detroit.

The Kemper Hall Alumnæ association is giving a luncheon today at the Blackstone hotel for Kemper alumnæ at home from various colleges.

More About Christmas Cards.

The mayor and Mrs. Edward J. Kelly sent their friends engraved cards adorned with a green and gold seal of the City of Chicago. . . . The Walter Hustons [Nan Sunderland], records of the song he sings in Knickerbocker Holiday "From May to September" with "and on the 25th of December" added. . . . The Frank Berings [Joan Winters], photographs of their children with Santa Claus. . . . Nazimova, red, white and blue star adorned cards with her autograph in red ink. . . . The Charles MacArthurs [Helen Hayes] delighted their friends by sending cards bearing Victorian woodcuts, one of Queen Victoria as a child, seated in a Victorian chair, with greetings from Helen Hayes, and one of Albert, standing on another chair, with greetings from Charles MacArthur! . . . Helen Morgan's card: a piano with a Christmas tree on it [surprise! surprise!] and a doll with the Morgan hair-do and exaggerated eyelashes standing beside it.

Then there are the Christmas wrappings, as exciting as the gifts themselves. Gertrude Lawrence used extravagant, great red satin bows to tie her packages and downy bits of white feather were pasted all over the package. . . . One of the loveliest packages observed among a friend's presents was Mrs. Robert J. Dunham's silver-wrapped package, a green Christmas tree pasted the length of it, with tiny silver foil decorations glued to the branches.

The most incongruous Christmas sight reported over the holiday week-end: When Mr. and Mrs. Henry Field went to the main post-office late Saturday evening a guard with a sawed-off shotgun, wearing an ammunition belt, seated in a plain kitchen chair on top of a kitchen table, was singing Christmas carols at the top of his voice.

Charmingly Simple Dress

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Charmingly simple, this afternoon dress may be worn to all types of informal social events. The V neckline may have a collar or dispense with it, using a corsage or clip at the base. The waistline is built up high and smooth, lending a long, flattering line to the flared skirt. The bodice, with its sleeves that are cut in one with the shoulders, has plenty of soft fullness derived from shirring at both shoulders and waistline. If you like, use a belt around the waist. It may be of self-fabric or of lether. Some of the newest belts, those embroidered or studded with stones, are particularly flattering accents. The simpler the fabric the more lavish the accessories may be.

The original of this dress is fashioned of rather heavy black crêpe. The collar is of metallic cloth. No belt was used on this model, and it's the utterly simple type with which you may wear plenty of costume jewelry.

Style No. 3033 is designed for sizes 16, 18, and 20, and 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material, with ⅜ yard of 35 inch contrasting for the collar.

BY CECIL SMITH.

The uncontrollable imaginative spirit of Ireland and the historic tenets of the universal Catholic church come to grips in Paul Vincent Carroll's "Shadow and Substance." Against the rocklike, imperturable grammarian's logic of Canon Skerritt clashes the tender, folk simplicity of Brigid, his young maidservant, who believes that she holds daily conversations with Saint Brigid.

The canon lives in a world of "fools and boobs," with only the "wisdom and grace" of Brigid as a mainstay. Final tragedy for Brigid and final disillusionment for a young, honest schoolmaster are the outcome of the canon's implacable attitude.

Deep rooted and theologically challenging as is the substance of which the canon's character is founded, it is the shadow of Brigid's innocent faith and the honest Irish naïveté of the canon's parishioners that will chiefly endear "Shadow and Substance" to the larger number of playgoers.

Eddie Dowling, of late years a producer of remarkable taste and competence, has given "Shadow and Substance" a cast and production of extraordinarily high quality. The players represent a hand picked group, with enough of the map of Ireland and its enchanting brogue about them to be real, yet with sufficient grasp of the intellectual overtones of the drama to lift the performance to the level of important art. It is hard to imagine that the famous Abbey theater of Dublin, which first presented the play two years ago, could have brought it more wholly to life.

Julie Haydon, as the young maid whose supernatural association with Saint Brigid precipitates the emotional crisis of the drama, turns in a performance of rare beauty. Every inflection and word is enkindled by the rarest personal charm, warm yet reticent. She evidently understands and loves her part profoundly, and she is able to bring to it a constant overtone of religious implication without ever destroying its innocence.

Sir Cedric Hardwicke, like Miss Haydon a newcomer to the Chicago stage, mixes austerity with barbed humor. The dignity of his responsibility to the Church colors his whole outlook. Both the author's magnificent writing and Sir Cedric's capacity to give virility and credibility to it conspire to make Canon Skerritt a living, engrossing figure.

As if taking their cue from two principals so ideally in command of their rôles, the other players contributed a gallery of deftly drawn portraits. Sara Allgood, portraying an old maid busybody with a nephew's future to further, recalls memories of her former achievements with the Abbey players.

Harry Sothern and Len Doyle, as the two curates whose earthy upbringing leaves them unable to cope with the Canon, are the sources of considerable merriment. Lloyd Gough makes his schoolmaster likeable despite his burden of earnestness.

It is a rare thing to discover a play of such serious import with so inviting a twist of wit and sheer good humor. When all is said and done, "Shadow and Substance" shows that thoughtfulness and good entertainment are not mutually exclusive.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Full of Years, and Honors

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 26.—Again a New Year is at hand. In Hollywood there are veterans who have seen many New Years and are still here to see 1939 introduce itself in the parade of centuries. High on a hilltop overlooking Vine and Sunset dwells 85 year old Samuel Kayzer, one of the local colony who is distinguished because of years and honors. For close on to sixty years Kayzer has associated with the great names of the world, called in by them to teach them how to talk as befits their stations. Kayzer is a genius in his field and most of the stars of the movies have studied at his knee—although there are quite a few he would not teach for love or money, because he reserves the privilege of hearty dislikes. I asked him what he had observed about human nature in the course of eighty-five New Years, and he quoted from Shakespeare's "Julius Cæsar":

"But 'tis a common proof,
"That lowliness is young ambition's ladder,
"Whereto the climber-upward turns his face;
"But when he once attains the upmost round,
"He then unto the ladder turns his back,
"Looks in the clouds, scorning the base degrees
"By which he did ascend."

All of us might reflect on that Shakespearean thrust at lack of gratitude and appreciation. While we are on the way up, the ladder which helps us to the summit is of vast importance, but once the summit is achieved, the temptation is to turn our backs on the ladder that led to it, erase it from memory so that it will not be there to refute the assertion that we are self-made. . . . So in 1939, let us have more gratitude.

What has Lewis Stone learned about life in the procession of new years? He told me a story to illustrate it. "A clerk working in a big office was approached by the office manager at fifteen minutes to noon," said Judge Hardy, "and judging from the actions of both, the clerk was bawled out for something. When he went to the washroom at lunch time, the clerk who had been sitting at the next desk told him: 'Don't let that office manager bawl you out. Next time he says anything to you, tell him to go to blazes.' That afternoon, the two clerks met again in the washroom. 'I was just fired by the office manager," said the first clerk. 'He started bawling me out again and I did what you told me to do—I told him to go to hell.' The second clerk showed his amazement: 'I didn't mean you were to tell him that to his face,' he protested: 'You should have said that under your breath.'" . . . So in 1939, remember that in a workaday world there are some things you can think, but can't say out loud.

Adolphe Menjou has seen quite a few New Years arrive, and he has studied human nature: "The thing that startles me most," says Menjou, "is how few persons can handle success. Most of us can work out a compromise with failure, by tightening our belts a few notches and giving up luxuries. I've known a lot of failures and they were decent people, easy to get along with. Success changes most of them overnight into boors. They become arrogant, self-opinated, rude, intolerant. I often wonder at this phenomenon of human nature."

Sam Goldwyn has been in this industry for a long, long time. He will tell you that honesty and integrity are the handmaidens of success. In his first picture Goldwyn and his partner, Jesse Lasky, engaged Cecil B. De Mille to make "The Squaw Man." After spending $47,000, an unheard of sum in 1913, they learned to their horror that the completed print of the picture, because of an error in sprocketing, jumped crazily on the screen. They could have gone into bankruptcy; instead Goldwyn insisted on spending extra thousands of dollars to have pasted on, by hand, perforations on a film that was more than a mile long. He was honest with the people who had invested money. They have kidded Goldwyn's dialect; they have never kidded his integrity.

No one knows what Infant 1939 will bring in when it parks its crib in the nursery of history, but it is too bad that the infant year hasn't a stage mother to handle him as wisely as Mrs. Temple handles Shirley Temple. "Stage Mother" is generally a term of derision, applied by professionals to those undesirable creatures who have a child prodigy in the theater, but in the case of Mrs. Temple, stage mother becomes a decoration of merit. It does not take a great imagination to vision Shirley as the worst brat of contemporary history because if ever a child was exposed to the danger of spoiling, she has been. But Mrs. Temple prevented it, and for that incredible feat of balance she rates a congressional medal. Photographed, interviewed, pestered by autograph hunters, Shirley, thanks to her mother's wisdom and firmness, enters 1939 a normal child, which in fact is more than you can say about 1939.

Reception for Singer.

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. E. Burke Bowen and her ward, Miss Patricia Shewan, gave a reception this afternoon at their home for Mme. Queena Mario after the latter's farewell appearance at the Metropolitan Opera house. Mme. Mario appeared in "Hansel und Gretel." There was a program of Christmas carols at the party.

SYNOPSIS.

Nora Stacy receives a letter from India from her fiancé, irresponsible Jim Murdock, breaking their engagement. Heart broken, Nora writes Jim she'll marry the next man who asks her. Jim's family live next door to the modest English cottage where Nora lives with her aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Callender. When Bob Matherson of Fairways, rich young bachelor and recent neighbor, proposes to Nora she accepts. Three days before the wedding Jim returns and demands that Nora run away with him. Nora feels morally pledged to Bob. Jim gives Nora her love letters to him—except the one in which she vowed to marry the next man who asked her. Mrs. Pearl Almy, a former attachment of Bob's, who rents a cottage on his estate, gets the letter and sends it to Bob, hoping he'll call off the wedding, but Bob goes through with it. Their wedding night Bob tells Nora he married her for convenience, too. They agree their marriage will be in name only. Bob and his sister's husband, David Longton, are in the aircraft armament business for the government. Cissy Longton tells Nora that Mrs. Almy, who used to work in their office, is suspected of giving away the firm's secrets to a rival. Nora dismisses the housekeeper when she finds her conspiring with Mrs. Almy. Bob is in danger of being arrested for double crossing his country. A government man, Capt. Grew, arrives at Fairways and Bob invites him to stay for an informal party. He tells Bob he is investigating Mrs. Almy, Bob's suspected mistress. Nora hears him. Mrs. Almy is plotting with Jim to steal plans that night from the Fairways Tower room safe. Nora dances with Jim and relives the illusion of her old love. Later Bob misses Nora from the room. He finds her in her boudoir and suspects her of having a rendezvous with Jim. Pearl taunts him after Jim has pretended to leave, but Mrs. Callender sees him sling through the housekeeper's quarters. Bob takes Pearl home and returns to Nora with lipstick on his face. He doesn't explain Pearl forced her Judas kiss on him.

INSTALMENT XXVI.
A MISSING KEY.

Nora turned, opened the drawer, and gave Bob the bunch of keys.

"Is there anything else you want?" she asked.

"There may be. Please don't go." His attention was on the keys, he was running through them, checking them off carefully.

"Just when," he said, "did you make young Murdock a present of the duplicate key to the Tower room?"

"I don't know anything about it—about any key. Why should I give it to Jim—for what purpose?"

"Are you telling the truth?"

"Of course I am."

"If I thought you were lying——"

"Why should I lie to you? What object would I have? Let go, please—you are hurting me."

He didn't let her go, but he relaxed his grip a little.

"I'll tell you, since you don't seem to know. You saw me putting away something in that safe of mine in the Tower room last night, and it would not be very difficult for you to guess that it was something valuable—important papers, for instance. Somebody has been at that safe and it could only have happened tonight, any time between 9 o'clock and midnight. It couldn't have happened at all without that duplicate key. Somebody gave it to Murdock——"

"But why to Jim?"

"Jim Murdock is the only person who could have done it," said Bob Matherson angrily. "I have had information tonight that he is in the employ of people who are trying to wreck my firm."

"Who told you?" Nora asked.

"Capt. Grew. He's a home office man. He's been sent here to watch me. I don't know exactly what it would be worth to Tankerton's continental associates to get hold of our plans for the new bomber, but I could hazard a near guess. You and Murdock could live quite comfortably for the rest of your lives on it—if you picked the right country."

Comprehension was dawning on Nora.

"Did you think I was going to run away with Jim?" she asked.

"You're in love with him, aren't you?"

His grip tightened on her arms again.

"Look at me—for God's sake give me a straight answer. If you're going off with that fellow, if that's in your mind, I won't try to stop you. I won't do anything to him, either. I give you my solemn word of honor on it—only, I must know the truth."

"I never once thought of such a thing," Nora whispered.

"Then why did you say you were going?"

Her face flashed scarlet and she twisted free of him.

"Because . . . I cannot bear the humiliation any longer," she said.

"Of what?"

She made a helpless little gesture.

"Are you going to make me put it into words?"

"I've been putting a lot of things into words. . . . You still haven't told me one thing. I saw Murdock tell you he loved you—it was when you were dancing with him. If you care for him, Nora, I guess I can be big about it."

"But I don't!"

"You're not—in love with him?"

"No . . . not any more."

"But you had been crying. What for?"

"Don't you think a person might weep for lost illusions—for something that might have been—that once was, but had crumbled into dust and ashes?"

"Not if that person had something worth while to put in its place," he said.

Nora nodded and swallowed down a lump in her throat.

"That's just it. I haven't got anything to put in its place. . . . Bob, if you really want me to stay, I won't go. I mean—not just while you're in this trouble."

He looked at her doubtfully.

"I can take care of my own troubles."

"Let's talk about them, please. I've been wondering, while you were telling me about Jim—if you are so positive he opened your safe—wouldn't it be simple to arrest him on suspicion? I hardly dare suggest that Mrs. Almy may be the one who really did it. You seem to have every confidence in her."

The slow, grim smile with which he answered her was bewildering.

"Nobody is going to be arrested at my instigation," he said quietly. "I let people play their hands in their own way."

"Even if it means ruin and disgrace for you?" she asked in amazement.

"So far, it hasn't," he replied. "Now go to bed and try to get some sleep."

He held the door open for her and as she passed him her arm brushed his and again that odd little thrill went over her.

She turned: "What about you? Are you going to sit up all night?"

"No, I shall turn in presently, . . . Nora——?"

"Yes?"

"I believe you were telling me the truth. I've got to believe it."

Never before had she seen him look forlorn or anything approaching it.

"Of course I was," she said.

She rushed away. If she had hesitated another second she would have flown to him and begged him on her knees, if necessary, to let her into the secret places of his life so that she could more truly play her rightful part in helping him.

But between her and him stood the other woman—the woman who had always been there—the woman who even now could set the seal of her red lips on his and openly laugh at and defy his wife.

Bob waited until Nora had disappeared from view, then he went to his room.

He could hear Beals going the rounds, putting out lights, locking up. It was nearly 2 o'clock.

Bob wasn't sleepy, but he was terribly tired. He was partially undressed and had put on a dressing gown when Beals tapped at his door.

"What is it?"

"I don't quite know, sir, if everything's all right. There may be a burglar in the house. I found the door of the housekeeper's sitting room unlocked, sir, with the key on the outside. The door that leads to the garden."

"By jove—so that was the way of it! I'll come along and have a look. Have you got your torch?"

Beals handed him the torch and trotted after him as he sped down the stairs.

Lightly clad as he was, Bob opened the door and threw the beam of the electric torch on the snowy path.

"Look, Beals! Do you see those tracks? Evening dress shoes—one set going and another coming. It was after he bade me good-night—it was while we were all hovering over Mrs. Almy that the trick was done. And I mightn't have found out if he hadn't left the light on in the Tower room—careless beggar! Well, there isn't much mystery about it now."

Even on the second day after Christmas there still are leftovers. I have a few ideas about what to do with some of these "scraps," which I modestly think are pretty good. Take broiled ham salad, for example. Of course, if you had turkey for Christmas dinner you may not care for this suggestion, but I have another one to offer turkey eaters. Besides, you may use turkey instead of the ham in this cooked salad, if you like.

Broiled Ham Salad.

[Serves Six]

2 cups diced baked ham
6 good sized tomatoes
2 hard cooked eggs
½ cup cooked peas
½ cup mayonnaise
8 slices bacon

Hollow tomatoes to form cups. Combine diced ham with diced eggs, peas and mayonnaise. Fill tomato cups. Cut the bacon strips in two and place half a strip over each filled tomato. Broil until tomatoes are soft, filling is hot, and bacon is browned. The salad may be baked in a moderate oven if you prefer not to use the broiler.

Turkey Shortcake.

[Serves Four]

2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup shortening
¾ cup milk
1 cup diced cooked turkey
½ cup diced celery
2 tablespoons butter (for cooking celery)
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon butter
Salt, pepper

The shortcake part of this hot dish is a plain baking powder biscuit dough. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together, and cut in the shortening. Add milk and stir to make a soft dough. Knead very gently for a few seconds on a lightly floured board, and pat out to about ¾ inch in thickness. Cut with a small biscuit cutter and bake biscuits in a hot oven, 450 degrees, for 12 minutes. Meanwhile, brown the celery in the 2 tablespoons butter. Make a sauce by blending the flour with the 1 tablespoon butter, adding the milk, and cooking until smooth. Add salt and pepper to season (about ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper). Add browned celery and turkey meat. Heat together thoroughly. When biscuits are done, split open, add a bit of butter to each, fill with turkey mixture, and add a spoonful of the creamed turkey to the top. Serve very hot.

Simple Chicken or Turkey Salad.

[Serves four]

2 cups diced cooked chicken or turkey
1 cup diced celery
Salt, pepper
Mayonnaise or other similar type dressing
Lettuce, chicory or endive

Toss together chicken, celery, salad greens and enough dressing to moisten well. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Good Morning!

We've had "Secrets of an Actress," which neither told nor concealed much . . . "Secrets of a Nurse" is another mediocre movie.

The heroine is pretty Nurse "Mac," who is loved by two men—an illiterate, but handsome pugilist [Dick Foran] and a distinguished criminal lawyer [Edmund Lowe].

Through the machinations of sporting world villains and Lawyer Dodge's jealous conniyings, Fighter Burke is accused and convicted of murder. He is, however, saved from the electric chair by the last minute efforts of—well, never mind. But it is sure lucky for the victim that a certain attorney recovers when he does from the attack of jealousy that has laid his inherent nobility low!

Performances in this piece are all praiseworthy, and I reckon the director knew his business.

But the STORY . . . Ouch!

See you tomorrow.

Parents Should Avoid Constant Correcting at the Dinner Table

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

The dinner table when the family is gathered together is not the place to concentrate on teaching table manners. Certainly the constant picking up of a child on every slip of etiquet at the end of the day is an unpleasant and an extremely inefficient proceeding.

With a boy of 9 or 10 the best way is to talk to him about these points some time during the day, or shortly before the meal. Add to this an occasional, quietly spoken reminder during the progress of dinner and you'll get about as far as you can get during these rather harum-scarum years of childhood.

Old Ballet of Broken Love Is Charming Still

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo began its second week at the Auditorium theater last evening with a first Chicago performance [by this company] of the antique and touchingly naive "Giselle," and with another repetition of the sparkling new "Gaite Parisienne."

"Giselle" is a century old ballet based on a Theophile Gautier story. Music is by Adolfe Adam, and this new staging is the work of Serge Lifar, with scenery and costumes after Alexandre Benois. It concerns the trusting peasant girl to whom the knowledge of her lover's deception—he, a noble, had pretended to be of her station—brings madness and death. She is then received into the ranks of the Willis, affianced maidens who have died before their nuptials and who dance the eerie graveyard nights away.

Alicia Markova gave a superb performance as Giselle. Her technical accomplishments permit her to retain her earth free qualities even in the midst of the most trying difficulties. Over and above this, she has a pungent personality which informs and makes unique every routine, every posture, every dainty bit of miming.

Igor Youskevitch, as the lover, helped keep the piece full of the extravagant romanticism which is one of its chief attractions. His characterization was marked by courtliness and an air of legendry—as well as by huge skill and agility.

Efrem Kurtz, the conductor, kept the music quiet and expressive, and saw to it that those melancholy little tunes, with the fiddles playing along in sixths, fused perfectly with the affecting actions on the stage.

Junior D. A. R. Members to Give Dinner Tonight

Prospective members of the Chicago chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be guests of the junior membership committee at a dinner this evening at the University club. Mrs. William H. Pouch of New York, national chairman of junior membership and national president of the Children of the American Revolution, and Mrs. Jacob Fredrich Zimmerman of Harvey, state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Illinois, will be special guests.

Kitten Family Joins Ranks of Transfer Designs

BY NANCY CABOT.

The kitten family is the latest member of the animal group to be drafted for duty on a hot iron transfer pattern of days-of-the-week towels. They also may enjoy their outdoor activities on a carriage quilt or as motifs of decoration on pockets of suits and dresses. The skater is a colorful figure of red and blue, and those enormous whiskers are embroidered in black. The head and tail may be the color of the orange angora breed of cat.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the six kittens, No. X-542, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

The question of the recent examination that brought the loudest roars of protest was:

Question 22: Both sides vulnerable, the bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 diamonds	Pass	?

You are South and hold:

♠ 8 4 2 ♥ 7 5 3 ♦ A 5 ♣ A Q 9 8 5

What call do you make now?

The official answer was "three hearts." This, I am sorry to report, did not meet a warm reception. A great many participants objected on the ground that South was asked to give a double raise to an unrebid suit when holding less than adequate trump support. I venture to differ: South was asked to do no such thing. He was asked to give a better than preference bid. It was pointed out that South had two and a half tricks and a reasonable fit in hearts, and that a mere two heart bid at this point would not begin to express South's strength. I now submit that because a bid has objections to it does not rule it out as the best bid. After all, the correct bid in any given situation is nothing more nor less than the least of all evils. South could have bid two clubs, and later two hearts, on a holding such as:

♠ Q 4 ♥ 7 5 3 ♦ 5 2 ♣ K Q 10 5 4 2

Obviously the difference between this "might have been" and the hand actually held is enormous and must be expressed if game-going potentialities are to be capitalized. By the same token North must recognize South's three heart bid for just what it is, not a direct raise, but a better-than-preference, and must protect himself. If North holds a weak five card suit, or a four card suit, with strength in spades, his proper bid is not a blind four hearts, but a tentative three no trump, and that is where the hand will play.

TODAY'S HAND.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: My husband and I usually roll up a fair score in duplicate, owing to our teamwork on coöperative doubles, but here is a deal that has been a severe strain on the family ties:

"South, dealer.

"Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ K 10 9 3
♥ J 9 2
♦ A
♣ A Q 10 8 5

WEST	EAST
♠ A 8 7 6 5	♠ Q J 4 2
♥ A Q 8	♥ 6 5
♦ 6	♦ J 10 4 3
♣ K J 9 3	♣ 7 4 2

SOUTH
♠ None
♥ K 10 7 4 3
♦ K Q 9 8 7 5 2
♣ 6

"I was South. I dealt and passed, West bid one club, my husband [North] doubled, fourth hand passed. I responded with two diamonds, a jump bid. West then bid two spades, North doubled, and East passed. With my holding I could not visualize more than a one trick penalty [if that much], so I bid three hearts. West passed and my dear helpmate bid three no trump. Well, believe it or not, I passed and then came the explosion! You'd have thought I'd murdered the cook and hid her under the sofa! Of course, I had mentally placed North with a fair fit in both my suits and stoppers in the black suit, and who wants to play five diamonds or four hearts in duplicate when the deal may produce five no trump? The results proved me wrong, but I thought I had told my story and had elected North the captain of the team. I passed originally, gave a jump response to a double with a minor suit, and then took out a penalty double into the other red suit. Now, should I also have rescued three no trump? If so, with which suit? The deal was a heartbreaker inasmuch as three no trump went down three tricks. Incidentally, should sweetness in the North position have bid three no trump when holding the singleton ace of diamonds?

"Yours truly,

"Mrs. C. P., Chicago."

Chivalry aside for the nonce, I am afraid that I must rule against my correspondent. A hand divided 7-5-1, in duplicate, rubber bridge, or Pogo Pogo should play in a suit, not in no trump! South had not told North that she held a five card heart suit, and particularly at duplicate should have rebid the hearts over three no trump. Obviously North would have welcomed a four heart bid as the final contract.

Tomorrow's Hand

Here's Device to Ease Suede Into Galoshes

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Only the long suffering strugglers who have ungracefully tried to maintain their composure and temper trying to park suede footgear into skin fitting galoshes can properly acclaim one of the best finds of the season. It's a small affair of knitted cotton, a sort of knitted glove for the shoe. It does a grand job of protecting as well as forming an easy slipon surface for the galoshes. It's such a simple device, with so much snug smoothness and with such a small price mark, you'll buy at least three pairs.

Not only can you wear and use them as protectors for your suedes, but they'll also keep the feet warmer and can be used with great success as slipper protectors by all the feminine chauffeurs—something that has been needed for years. Ask any fastidious driver with memories of an otherwise immaculate costume ruined with scuffed heels of the footgear that conducted the car through trafic.

These clever trifles that promise so much will be found in the notion departments, priced in a single duet or less for a three pair package.

For the service they perform and the comfort assured, they're the biggest bargains available. They can be tucked into a handbag when not in use—or a pair for the car and a pair parked with the galoshes. Neutral in tone, they're easy to wear as well as to look at. If you've ever needed foot smoothies, here are the prize winners!

Beloit Alumni.

Beloit college students and alumni of the Chicago area will hold their annual Christmas supper-dance this evening in the Walnut room of the Bismark hotel.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

It's curious that women who fuss a great deal about their clothes, their complexions, and their grooming in general want short cuts to hair beauty. They pay a great deal of attention to the way their hair is dressed, but they do begrudge the time and effort necessary for treatment that keeps hair beautiful or restores its beauty after neglect has got in its bad work.

We always feel a trifle futile as we urge women to brush their hair and to make intelligent effort at corrective treatment. Taking good care of her hair is one of those things a woman believes in absolutely but doesn't quite get around to doing.

However, for you people who aren't just toying with the idea of actually getting your hair into shape, here is a program that will work wonders:

It involves the use of two preparations. One, an ointment, is described as a scalp "nourisher." The other is a liquid, a corrective oil for dry hair. These are to be used on alternate days for a really intensive corrective program. And, for the hot oil treatment to precede the shampoo the oil should be heated and applied to the scalp with a small brush. A toothbrush is ideal. It should be rubbed in well and left on for at least half an hour.

The oil has a really lovely fragrance. It's not perfume, but a clean smell that makes you think of the pleasant sort of antiseptics. And it does wonders.

You really can restore the lost luster of your hair. But wishing doesn't do it. If your hair looks like a mop do try this.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

[For information about these hair preparations telephone Eleanor Nangle, Superior 0100.]

Spanish Troupe Gives a Stirring Dance Recital

One of the most intoxicating dance events of this or any other season took place in Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon when Argentinita, famous Spanish dancer, and her small company gave their first public recital in Chicago. This choice band of five artists had already appeared privately at the Arts club on Nov. 20. Their Orchestra hall engagement became possible when the current of events in Spain led Argentinita to decide upon a longer stay in the United States.

Three extraordinary dancers—Argentinita, her sister Pilar Lopez, and Antonio Triana—a superlative guitarist, Carlos Montoya, and an admirable pianist, Bogelio Machado, constitute the group. While the repertoire has a Spanish cast throughout, it maintains infinite variety. The dancers have poked back a century or two into Spanish history for dances and costumes far off the beaten track, as, for instance, Argentinita's portrait of the Spanish counterpart of a "Gibson girl" of the 1890s.

It is both difficult and unnecessary to pick a favorite among the three dancers. All the captivating devices of rhythm and movement that make the blood surge and boil are in their secure possession—the counterpoints of heels, castanets, and snapping fingers constantly enlivening bodily motion now crisp, now lyrical, now saucy or whimsical. Berkeley, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The University of California's Bears came to life in the last period today to score twice and defeat Georgia Tech's Engineers, 13 to 0. In two sharp drives the Bears traveled sixty yards and sixty-six yards to gain a victory from what appeared nothing better than a scoreless tie.

The game was witnessed by 35,000.

Vic Bottari, graduating left half back, sparked both touchdown sallies. He went over from the 3 yard line to break the deadlock and on the second thrust handed the ball to lanky Louie Smith, right half, who banged through the right side of the Tech line for a gain of seven yards. Bottari added the extra point with a dropkick after a similar try after the first touchdown had been blocked.

Tech Gets Real Tricky.

With superior weight and noticeably more ground power on its side, California held a slight edge in statistics during the first half and the last quarter. But in the third period, the swift moving boys from the south put on a show of fancy ball carrying which had the Californians running around in circles trying to find out who had the ball.

Faked punts of a vintage dating back a quarter of a century caught the Bears napping several times. Once Tech picked up twenty-one yards from such a play. Earl Wheby, right half, was the principal ball carrier on these foolers. A number of end-around plays, also branching from fake punts, resulted in good gains.

Until the two scoring series, the ball remained between the 19 yard lines. The Bears reached Tech's 19 in the opening period, Bottari returning a punt eighteen yards to the 25 yard line.

Fumble Proves Costly.

After advancing six yards, however, the ball reverted to Georgia on a recovered fumble, Bottari making the error and losing five yards in the bargain.

Tech made two impressive scoring bids in the third quarter, once advancing thirty-three yards to California's 31 yard line, and later moving thirty-one yards to within nineteen yards of the Bears' goal.

California's first touchdown drive started from its 40 yard line. Bottari carried the ball seven of eight times for a total of twenty-six yards, finally scoring. A fifteen yard penalty and a nineteen yard tackle smash by Smith accounted for the balance of the yardage.

Bottari and Smith divided the ball carrying duties on the second touchdown march. One pass was completed, from Bottari to Smith, good for seventeen yards, in the sixty-six yard drive.

Bears Lead in Series.

The outcome gave California an edge in the series, with three victories against two for Georgia Tech.

Eastern and western college football luminaries, preparing for the Shriners' charity game in San Francisco Jan. 2, saw the game. The western stars had an added interest in the contest. Two of their group, Bottari and Dave Anderson, full back, played their final game for California.

De Paul and Loyola Basket Squads Win

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The basketball teams of Loyola and De Paul universities last night held a belated Christmas celebration in the 132d Infantry armory with a pair of victories in the second of their series of double-headers.

After De Paul had snapped itself out of a streak in which it had won only one of four games, by defeating Penn State, 31 to 23, Loyola came on to whip Southern Methodist university's quintet, 44 to 31.

A capacity crowd of more than 5,000 packed the armory for the double program.

Five Victories for Loyola.

For Loyola the victory was the fifth in five starts this season. Wibs Kautz, the Ramblers' high scoring forward, who had averaged 25 points in each of the other four games, was restricted to a paltry ten baskets last night. Wibs was patroled rather closely by Crouch and Coppedge, the Texans' guards, throughout the game.

Loyola took a 10 to 3 lead early in the first half, but Norton, Wilkerson and Dewell sent S. M. U. to the front, 15 to 12, with less than 7 minutes of the period remaining. Kautz broke away for three baskets near the end of the half to give Loyola a 23 to 22 intermission margin.

De Paul Takes Lead.

In the second period the score seesawed until Kautz connected on a followup shot and then dashed in to score again on the rebound of a missed free throw. George Wenskus and big Mike Novak then helped run the count up to 36 to 29, the Ramblers' biggest margin since the first half.

De Paul's triumph over Penn State terminated a winning streak of three games for the Lions. The Blue Demons took a 16 to 10 edge at half time, and held the lead throughout the rest of the game, never allowing the easterners to approach closer than three points.

BRADLEY POWER WHIPS OREGON QUINTET, 52 TO 39

Peoria, Ill., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Bradley's powerful basketball team whipped Oregon tonight, 52 to 39.

The Oregon team had a height advantage in Laddie Gale and 6 foot 8 inch Slim Wintermute, but the fast breaking offense of Carl Schunk, Dar Hutchins, and Chuck Orsborn put Tech out in front early in the game.

The Tech quintet, which had just returned from the west coast this morning, lagged at the start and in two minutes Oregon led, 8 to 2.

SEABISCUIT TO START FOR WEST COAST TONIGHT

Columbia, S. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Trainer Tom Smith prepared tonight to ship Seabiscuit, voted the year's outstanding horse, to California and another meeting between Seabiscuit and War Admiral appeared only a remote possibility. Smith said Seabiscuit would leave winter quarters here tomorrow night for the Santa Anita handicap.

Ligament trouble in Seabiscuit's left front ankle prompted the decision to pass up the Florida races, the trainer said. Although explaining he expected the trouble to clear up shortly, Smith asserted, "I want to be near home if anything happens."

C. S. Howard of San Francisco, owner of the brown son of Hard Tack, wanted to send the horse to the Florida tracks, Smith said, but the trainer favored California.

Howard's remaining string of nineteen horses will accompany Seabiscuit.

Whether Seabiscuit races before the Santa Anita handicap, Smith explained, would depend upon training developments.

Leo Freisinger and Eleanor Thiel Dyer, C. Y. O. Skating club, won the men's and women's senior class A championships in the fourth annual Catholic Youth organization ice skating meet yesterday in Lincoln park. The club championship went to the C. Y. O. Skating club with 320 points. The Northwest Skating club was second with 250 and the Tilden Skating club third with 110.

Freisinger scored victories in the quarter and half mile events, for sixty points. Bob Heckenbach of the Northwest Skating club was his closest rival.

In capturing the senior women's Class A crown, Mrs. Dyer won the one-half and one mile races, each by a good margin. Genevieve Swierkos of the Govier Skating club was second, taking second place in the half mile and third in the one mile race.

No fast times could be made because of soft ice. The condition of the racing surface necessitated calling off the special 500 meter European styles event. Summaries:

Ohio State Turns Back U. C. L. A. Quintet, 46-38

Berkeley, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Ohio State's basketball team withstood a second half rally tonight to defeat University of California at Los Angeles, 46 to 38. The fast breaking Ohioans ran up a 26 to 13 lead by half time, but after the intermission found their own pace too fast and tired while the Bruins slowly closed the gap in the score.

On the same program Nebraska defeated California, 46 to 43.

Greetings!

For the laughs and thrills they've given me,
And that includes, dear teacher, thee,
For verses deft, and sparkling wit,
And that, in fact, 's not half of it.
For breakfast smiles throughout the year,
A daily shot of bracing cheer,
For quips and japes and clever ribs,
We owe you, fella, and your contribs,
In gay array and laughing ranks,
A mighty hearty word of thanks.
So I for one arise right now,
To offer 'em season's greetings—And How!

They wouldn't make me Santa Claus—
They say I'm not the type
To strut a brick red monkey suit
And reel off yards o' tripe;
But I must pay for all of this

So he can hand me purple sox
And red and yellow ties!

Alaska furs that dodo brings
To drape my lady fair,
Imported perfumes, dinner rings,
Parisian underwear,
And though he knows who underwrites
His shady enterprise
He leaves for me those awful sox
And rainbow strip-ed ties.

He knows I've got to take the stuff
And wear it with a smile
Around the house on Sundays
Though it gripes me all the while.
But waning holidays will mark
That blatherskite's demise,
And I can ditch his lousy sox
And BUY myself some TIES!

Waco, Tex., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Five thousand fans sat in chilly Municipal stadium today and watched the Fenger High school team of Chicago defeat Waco, 14-0. Don Griffin, Fenger's star half back, scored on short plunges in the first and third periods. Dudzik added the extra point after each score.

Don Griffin.

Waco, considered the outstanding high school team in the southwest, found the Chicagoans' defense more than it had bargained for. At no time was it able to get a sustained march under way as its line failed to match the sturdy Fenger forwards.

Just Too Much Class.

Fenger limited itself largely to gains inside tackle with Griffin, one of the outstanding backs developed in Chicago, jabbing away at the line for repeated gains. Fenger had too much speed for the Texans.

Near freezing temperatures, a stout north wind, and all morning rain that abated at game time afford anything but favorable conditions for the contest.

Fenger's defense was led by Westwater, Pavalonis, Johnson, Bohn, and Preston, a quintet of husky youngsters who took charge at the outset and held the upper hand throughout.

Fenger Seizes Breaks.

Fenger's first score was set up late in the opening period when Waco tried a quick kick against the wind. It was low and Fenger took the ball on its 43 yard line. Griffin ran wide for the first time and, with great blocking, got twelve yards at right end. Olson failed at the other end and a long pass to Olson overshot the mark. Griffin broke through for ten yards and a first down on Waco's 35 yard line. A pass was knocked down, then Griffin gained a yard.

Griffin passed to Dudzik for ten yards, putting the ball on the 24 yard line, then broke away from four tacklers at the line of scrimmage for seven more. Griffin ran wide again and bowled over three Waco players for a first down on the 13 yard line. Coppozo plunged for one yard and, on a spinner, Griffin shot through center for four. Zilius made it first down on the 2 yard line. Griffin crashed over for the touchdown.

Griffin Breaks Away.

Villines fumbled early in the third period and Fenger recovered on Waco's 35 yard line. Griffin carried most of the Waco team with him to the 2 yard line, but Fenger was penalized fifteen yards for holding, putting it back on the 23 yard line. Griffin ran for eleven yards, then wheeled around left end five more. Griffin plunged to the 3 yard line. He was stopped a right tackle, but went off left tackle for the touchdown.

HAWKS, HOCKY'S BIG ENIGMA, TO FACE CANADIENS

There's No Telling What'll Happen in Montreal.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks will play the Canadiens in Montreal tonight. The Canadiens are in last place in the National Hocky league, with a total of four victories, and the Hawks are in fourth place with seven victories. But there's no way to dope hocky any more. The Canadiens may win by 8 to 0 or the Hawks by 7 to 0—the form sheets have gone that screwy.

Not being in Montreal, we couldn't learn yesterday how the Hawks felt about the 5 to 1 trouncing the New York Americans gave them in New York Sunday night. But we could give a good guess, especially after talking to some of the Hawks folks who remained in Chicago.

A Guy Should Go Crazy.

The Hawks would be almost crazy with puzzlement even if they had no other problem than the fluctuating status of their affairs with the Americans. They beat the Americans here in the season opener, 6 to 1. There was great rejoicing, for they had not whipped the Americans during all of the 1937-'38 season. Then they go to New York and the Americans bust into them for a 6 to 4 victory. The next game is in Chicago, and what happens? The Hawks beat the Americans, 4 to 0. The fourth game of the season between the two teams, the one Sunday night, and that score of 5 to 1!

This business of the Americans is irrational but it has illogical parallels such as the Hawks' inability to beat the lowly Detroit Red Wings, even after they led them 3 to 0 in the second period. Another problem, less devastating because the Hawks have the better of the surprises, is the ratio with the New York Rangers, which is no worse than the second best team in hocky.

One Apiece, Then Bang!

In this series the Hawks broke a slump by beating the Rangers, 1 to 0, after having taken an earlier 1 to 0 licking at the hands of the Rangers here. In the third and last game between the two teams, the Hawks won by a score of 5 to 0.

That you may make a complete survey of the Hawks' inconsistencies this season we are going to set down the scores to date in the order the games were played:

Team, place—	Winner.	Score.
Americans, Chicago...	Hawks	6 to 1
Leafs, Toronto.....	Hawks	2 to 0
Canadiens, Montreal.	Hawks	3 to 2
Canadiens, Chicago...	Hawks	4 to 3
Rangers, Chicago	Rangers	1 to 0
Leafs, Chicago	tie	1 to 1
Wings, Detroit	Wings	4 to 3
Americans, New York.	Americans	6 to 4
Rangers, New York..	Hawks	1 to 0
Wings, Chicago	Wings	4 to 1
Bruins, Chicago	Bruins	5 to 0
Bruins, Boston	Bruins	1 to 0
Leafs, Toronto	Leafs	4 to 1
Americans, Chicago..	Americans	4 to 0
Leafs, Chicago	tie	4 to 4
Rangers, Chicago ..	Hawks	5 to 0
Wings, Chicago	tie	3 to 3
Americans, New York.	Americans	5 to 1

Bob Gracie, Bill Thoms, and Phil Besler will make their first appearance of the year against the Canadiens as members of the Hawks in tonight's game. And the Hawks will take their first look at Claude Bourque, the Canadiens' rookie goalie. The starting lineup:

CHICAGO.		CANADIENS.

WINGS CALL IN ROOKIE.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings, burdened by injuries, called in Gus Giesebrecht from its Pittsburgh farm club today in an effort to fill one of several gaps before resuming National league hocky play. Giesebrecht, 20 year old wing, will make his big league against the Chicago Blackhawks here Thursday night.

Toronto Beats Rangers, 2-0; Ties for 4th

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs tonight shut out the New York Rangers, 2 to 0, in a National Hocky league game before 13,648 in Madison Square Garden. The Leafs scored on Dave Kerr in the first and third periods, both on rebound plays. George Parsons set up the puck for Nick Metz in the opener and on the second goal he tapped in Syl Apps' rebound.

The victory put the Leafs in a tie with Chicago for fourth place. Toronto's defense, with Bucko McDonald, newly purchased from Detroit, adding his weight to that of Red Horner, looked exceptionally strong.

Neil Colville was injured in the side in the second period and was lost to the Rangers for the remainder of the game. Lineups:

Sandy Boot's Rally Wins at Tropical Park

Miami, Fla., Dec. 26.—(AP)—J. D. Norris' stretch-running 5 year old, Sandy Boot, came from far back today to win the Christmas handicap at Tropical Park. Mucho Gusto, prohibitive favorite in the field of five, wound up fourth.

Sandy Boot covered the mile and a sixteenth in 1:44 1-5 to whip M. Stuart's Court Scandal, 1937 Flamingo stakes winner, by two lengths. Another length back came the Cosgrave stable's Bob's Boys, with Mucho Gusto and Her Reigh bringing up the rear.

Mucho Gusto, making his first start since he finished second to War Admiral in the Rhode Island handicap at Narragansett Nov. 12, was a favorite at 4 to 5. Of the $20,196 wagered by the crowd of 12,000 in the straight pool, $10,022 rode on Mucho Gusto.

BUSY K. SCORES.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Busy K., 4 year old son of Busy American, running for D. A. Wood, returned to the winning side today for the first time since his victory in the Yonkers handicap at Empire City when he galloped to a two length victory in the $2,000 added Christmas handicap at Fair Grounds. Busy K. set all his own pace to beat H Januska's Invermark, which closed rapidly to take second money. J. W Brown's Michigan Flyer came in third after trailing Busy K. by four lengths going into the last turn.

MAROONS' PREP BASKET TOURNEY TO START TODAY

Senn Meets Harper in First Game.

Today's Games

1 p. m.—Senn vs. Harper.
2 p. m.—Marshall vs. Tilden.
3 p. m.—Calumet vs. DuSable.
4 p. m.—Saunders vs. Crane.
5 p. m.—Waller vs. Hyde Park.
7 p. m.—Tuley vs. Lindblom.
8 p. m.—Hirsch vs. Harrison.
9 p. m.—Lake View vs. Wells.

First flight matches in the University of Chicago's annual holiday basketball tournament for the city's public high schools will open today in the Midway fieldhouse. Eight games, representing the top half of the first round bracket will be played today between 1 p. m. and 10 p. m. Eight more contests tomorrow will complete the opening round.

Senn, which has been impressive in its early games, will open the tournament against Harper at 1 p. m. today. Thereafter play will be continuous except for the dinner hour at 6 p. m. Games are played in four quarters of eight minutes each, so that a new game can start every hour.

Parker Faces Manley.

Parker, the defending champion, which defeated Von Steuben in last year's final game, does not go into action until 7 p. m. tomorrow, when the south siders meet Manley high. The experts predict that Parker will have a hard time repeating since at least seven other quintets have turned in fine performances to date. Marshall, Crane, DuSable, Sullivan, Senn, Lindblom, and Kelvyn park are regarded as strong contenders.

Predicting winners in the Midway tournament is made difficult because there are no restrictions as to the players' height, weight or age. Coaches are permitted to draw from their lightweight squads as well as their heavies. Nevertheless, the tournament has come to be regarded as the early-season championship meet.

Eight second round games will be held Thursday, quarter finals are scheduled for Friday, semi-finals Saturday, and the championship and third place playoff Monday. The winner will receive a large silver basketball, engraved with the names of the team members.

Runnerup Gets Silver Ball.

The runnerup will be awarded a smaller silver ball, and members of the top four teams will receive individual medals. The tournament is the 21st in the series sponsored by the University of Chicago. Formerly the meet determined the national champion, but in 1931 it was limited to teams from the Chicago region, and in 1935 to the city's public schools.

Tomorrow's pairings:
1 p. m.—Sullivan vs. Bowen.
2 p. m.—Austin vs. Phillips.
3 p. m.—Englewood vs. Farragut.
4 p. m.—Schurz vs. Kelvyn Park.
5 p. m.—Lane vs. Morgan Park.
7 p. m.—Parker vs. Manley.
8 p. m.—Roosevelt vs. Washburn.
9 p. m.—Senger vs. Kelly.

BRADDOCK, NOVA ARE SIGNED FOR MARCH 31 BOUT

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Lou Nova will meet James J. Braddock, former world's heavyweight champion, in a ten round fight in Madison Square Garden March 31, it was learned today. Contracts, it is understood, are already signed.

If Nova wins he will meet Max Baer in an outdoor match next summer. Nova's showing these two bouts will determine whether he meets Joe Louis in a heavyweight championship fight in September. Nova took the Braddock bout because he feels it is another test of his fitness for a Louis match.

Braddock, who retired after licking Tommy Farr last Jan. 21, is forced back to the ring because of financial complications. Jimmy, the ex-longshoreman, is well set with annuities which have not matured, but he is short of ready cash. He and his manager, Joe Gould, lost approximately $15,000 each in the recently closed Braddock's Corner, a Broadway restaurant.

Benjamin S. Leiser is chairman of the event and Arthur A. Kahn is chairman of the entertainment committee. Other guests include Mike Novak and Wilbs Kautz, Loyola university basketball stars, and Al Schwartz, world champion swimmer and Olympic finalists.

TWO CLUBS HAVE CHANCE TO TAKE SKATES TROPHY

BY WILFRID SMITH.

From 1917 until his death in 1930 Walter Eckersall, of the sports staf of THE TRIBUNE, had charge of the annual Silver Skates derbies. From one race in 1917 the list had been expanded under his supervision until there were two derbies for girls and four for boys.

In 1931 a silver trophy, a two foot shaft on which is mounted the figure of a skater, was placed in competition as the team prize. It is called the Walter Eckersall memorial trophy. That silver trophy replaced the cup annually awarded to the skating team scoring the most points in The Tribune derbies. The Eckersall trophy becomes the permanent possession of the club winning it three times. Another then will be purchased.

Two Have Three Victories.

Seven of the shields on the ebony base of the Eckersall trophy have been inscribed with the names of victorious teams. The Catholic Youth organization skaters and the Northwest Skating club have two legs each on the shaft. Northwest, by a thrilling victory over the C.Y.O. last January, 390 points to 320 points, won its second championship.

Pete Miller, who is the coach of the 1940 United States Olympic team, instructs the C.Y.O. skaters. Bill Beck is coach of the Northwest Skating club.

It is likely that only one more shield will be needed, for if either the Northwest club or the C.Y.O. wins the trophy will be retired. Both teams are exceptionally strong. Nine other organizations scored in last year's derbies but Tilden Technical High school, in third place with 120 points, still was two hundred points behind the C.Y.O.

First Place Is 50 Points.

First place in each of the eight derbies counts 50 points. Second, third, fourth, and fifth places are respectively, 40 points, 30, 20, and 10.

The twenty-second annual derbies will be held in Garfield park Jan. 14 and 15. Entries close at midnight Jan. 7. Individual registration may be made on the entry blank which is printed daily. Team entries may be submitted by coach, manager, or instructor if the ages of all contestants are furnished. No major prize will be awarded without proof of the contestant's age.

Even if inclement weather prevents holding the derbies on the dates scheduled, or if they must be changed to another site, the list of entries compiled after the Jan. 7 deadline will determine eligibility.

MANHATTAN AND SPARTA WIN IN SOCCER GAMES

The Manhattan Soccer club and Sparta Garden City, both in the running for national honors, won warm-up games yesterday. The Manhattans defeated their reserve eleven, 5 to 2, in the Mills stadium, and Sparta ran all over its second team, 7 to 1.

The Brewers offered the Chrysler team of Detroit a guarantee to transfer the national cup match to Chicago, but the Chryslers turned it down. The Manhattans now meet the Chryslers in Detroit Jan. 8. Sparta plays the Lindell Trust team from St. Louis in Sparta stadium, 21st and Koster avenue, on the same date.

Bethany and Forest Park Win in Lutheran Tourney

Bethany and Forest Park were among the first round winners yesterday as the second annual All-Lutheran basketball tournament opened in the St. Andrews Athletic club in Park Ridge. Seven games were played. Bethany eliminated Arlington Heights, 27 to 18, and Forest Park beat Park Ridge, 15 to 13. Other scores:

Itasca, 31; Lyons, 30.
Elgin, 39; Trinity, 23.
Pilgrim, 26; River Forest, 25.
Des Plaines, 27; Addison, 21.
St. Lukes, 22; Roselle, 18.

Rodak Boxes 4 Rounds for Efrati Bout

The day after Christmas was a day of toil for principals in the boxing show in the Coliseum Thursday.

Leo Rodak, No. 1 featherweight, and Leone Efrati, the Italian importation, engaged in strenuous workouts yesterday in Trafton's gymnasium for their ten round windup.

So did Billy Marquart, Canadian lightweight, who meets Al Roth; Frankie [Kid] Covelli, Brooklyn featherweight, matched with Al Mancini, and Johnny Barbara and Harold Brown, welterweight opponents. The Barbara-Brown encounter is set for eight rounds. The others are for ten.

Rodak Boxes Four Rounds.

Rodak, former Chicago Golden Gloves flyweight, bantamweight, and featherweight champion, sparred four rounds with Covelli; Efrati went two rounds each with Nick Castiglione and Babe Sabino; Marquart worked several rounds with Phil Saeli, and Brown boxed five rounds, three with Tony Sopko and two with Willie Kline. Barbara confined himself to bag punching, rope skipping and shadow boxing.

Roth and Mancini, who are stablemates, worked out in New York before entraining for the loop. These battlers, neither of whom has fought in Chicago before, are scheduled to arrive today.

Rodak appeared in good form in his drill against Covelli. This caused his handlers to predict Leo would hand Efrati his first defeat in nine American starts. Leo will end hard training by going four rounds with Covelli once again this afternoon.

Although the Efrati match is over the featherweight limit, Rodak must score a victory if he expects to remain in the fight for 126 pound title.

Leo Gets Run Around.

The Chicago boxer was recognized as division title holder by the Maryland Athletic commission following his fifteen round conquest of Jackie Wilson of Pittsburgh in Baltimore last June 17. However, the National Boxing association refused to concur with Maryland. As a consequence, the N. B. A. asked Leo to eliminate Freddy Miller, a former holder of the crown. This the Chicagoan did in a fifteen round battle in Washington, D. C., Oct. 24. Still the N. B. A. refrained from giving Rodak title status.

The latest ultimatum of the association is that Rodak fight Petey Scalzo, former New York Golden Gloves winner, within sixty days. If he whips Scalzo, Leo then must defend the championship against Joey Archibald, New York title holder, two months thereafter. Thus, he would have a clear claim to the title, according to the N. B. A.

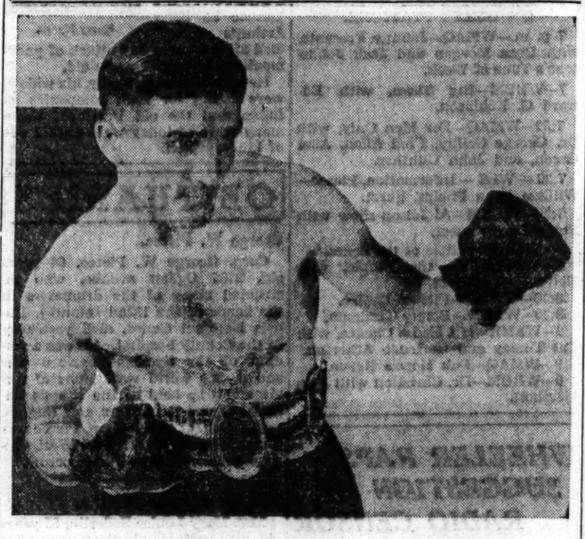
Nate Lewis, manager of Rodak, charges the N. B. A. with playing politics inasmuch as Rodak has done everything asked of him and neither Scalzo nor Archibald gives any indication of caring about meeting the Golden Gloves graduate.

Varias Milling, the veteran Filipino junior lightweight, did his first boxing in the loop yesterday for his eight round bout with Joey Silva of Los Angeles tomorrow in Park Casino. Other contestants on the card also worked out. They include Phil Saeli, who meets Ray Sharkey of Cleveland in an eight round bout. The preliminary program:

Nick Castiglione vs. George Van Der Hayden [5], 135.
Tony Sopko vs. Roy Miller [4], 154.
Patrick O'Brien vs. Jimmy Santori [4], 128.

Contracts were mailed yesterday to Buddy Baer and Tony Galento for a ten round heavyweight match in Chicago Stadium Feb. 17. The original date was Jan. 20. . . . Pete Lello, Gary lightweight, will return to action next month by appearing in Park Casino Jan. 4, Gary, Jan. 11, and Milwaukee, Jan. 19. His foe in the Casino will be Bobby McIntyre and in Milwaukee Lou Ambers. . . . Ken Overlin tackles Frankie Blair, Camden, N. J., middleweight, in White City Jan. 13. . . . The first headliner of the new year in Marigold Gardens will be a ten rounder involving Tony Gale, Gary 160 pounder, and Nate Bolden, next Monday. F. M.

One Belt, One Title, He Seeks Another



Leo Rodak, a Tribune Golden Gloves product, who has reached ranking contendership for the world's featherweight championship, displays the title belt given him by the Maryland boxing commission, which recognized him as the division king. Rodak fights Leon Efrati of Italy, in the Coliseum on Thursday night.

Patterson Is Given Beating by Cianciola

Tony Cianciola, Milwaukee welterweight won a hard fought eight round bout from Verne Patterson of Chicago last night in the Marigold gardens. Cianciola weighed 153½ pounds to Patterson's 147½. Cianciola twice had Patterson apparently out on his feet, in the sixth round when the bell saved Verne, and in the eighth round.

Patterson probably fought the best fight of his career on this occasion but he could not evade Tony's right hand blasts.

Eddie Lander, west side Jewish featherweight, won a five round decision over Frankie Kainrath, thereby stopping Frankie's victories streak which had reached eight straight. Chico Romo of Los Angeles proved too clever a boxer for Don Swenson of St. Paul and the Californian's hand was raised at the end of the eighth round. Pat Murphy and Alex Pug fought a four round draw. Tony Motisi stopped Owen Woods in the third round.

Letters Praise Proposal to Restrict Dogs

BY BOB BECKER.

We read your article in THE TRIBUNE about "Curbing Your Dog" and we were so glad to see it. I never could understand why something of that sort had not been insisted upon before this, for dogs can be trained to cleanly habits. If you could only give more attention to this subject I know that dogs would not be disliked by so many people.

This letter is quite typical of the correspondence that has come to our desk in approval of the ordinance introduced by Alderman J. H. Kadow to compel Chicago dog owners to teach their pets more sanitary habits when they are exercising them on city streets. A few letters received on the ordinance condemn it. 'One accuses us of being in league with the city janitors.'

The first suggestion that Chicago should have a "Curb Your Dog" ordinance and that Chicago dog owners would be wise to ask for such an ordinance in Chicago was printed in the "Mostly About Dogs" column of this newspaper Dec. 4.

As pointed out in that story, New York has had a regulation of this type for some time. Our copy of it shows that it is part of the sanitary code and is known as section 237. The regulation reads in part as follows:

"Dogs to be controled so as to not commit nuisances. . . . No person having the right and ability to prevent shall knowingly, or carelessly or negligently, permit any dog or other animal to commit any nuisance upon any sidewalk of any public street, avenue, park, or public square or place in the city of New York; . . . or upon the fences of any premises, or the walls or stairway of any building, abutting on a public street, avenue, park, public square or place; etc."

The New York ordinance—officers give owners tickets for court appearances if they do not curb their dogs—has made for a cleaner city.

Fight Decisions

At New York—Peter Scalzo beat Paul Lee, [8]; Joey Ferrando beat Chalky Wright, [8]; Peewee Bonito beat Frank Fariello [4].

At Pittsburgh, Pa.—Al Quaill beat Freddie Lenn [10]; Honey Boy Jones beat Jack Moran [10].

At Toledo, O.—Fritzie Zivic and Howell King drew [10]; Lee Shepherd stopped Young Kid McCoy [5].

OREGON'S TALL QUINTET FACES MACOMB TONIGHT

The University of Oregon's giant basketball team, which plays the Western State Teachers of Macomb, Ill., tonight in the Coliseum, might easily be named the Flying Finns instead of the Oregon Webfoots.

Five members of the Oregon squad, defending northern division, Pacific coast conference champions are Finnish youths from the same sea coast city of Asteria, Ore., long the hot bed of northwest high school basketball.

Two Are Seniors.

Two of the Webfoot regulars, Wally Johansen and Bob Anet, guards, are among the Astorians who have moved on to the university. Both are seniors this season. Ted Sarpola, junior letterman and No. 1 alternate at forward, and Earl Sandness, forward, and Toivvo Piipo, guard, both sophomores, are the other three.

Johansen, who stands out both as a ballhandler and scorer, won all-Pacific coast honors last season. Anet, smallest member of the Oregon squad at 5 feet 8 inches, was captain of the 1937-38 five.

Sarpola, called the whirling Dervish, is one of the best shot makers on the coast. Lithe and extremely fast, Sarpola gets off his shots from every conceivable angle. He never has been known to score an orthodox two handed chest shot.

Both Sarpola and Sandness at one time held state high school scoring records. Sarpola set up his mark in 1936, only to have Sandness better it the following year. Leonard Garod of Eugene, star of the present Oregon freshmen, established the newest mark only last year.

Parkes Meet La Salles.

On the same card the Missouri Valley A. A. U. league's champion five, the Parkes Clothiers of Oklahoma City, Okla., will meet the La Salle Hotel Cavaliers of Chicago. This will be the first game the hotel squad has played on the home court, having just returned from a western trip around the A. A. U. circuit.

Al Wellhausen, 6 feet 10 inches, weighing two hundred and seven pounds, is one of the Parkes' stars. He played at the University of Kansas two years ago and went directly into the A. A. U. competition with the Oklahomans. Wellhausen will be matched against Paul Amundsen, lanky center for the hotel squad.

PEPSI COLA TEAM TOPS NORTH END BOWLING TEAMS

The Pepsi Colas led the North End Traveling league with a 3124 total on the Milford alleys last night and won two of three games from the Kruse Stations. Clarence Steinke of the winners bowled 706 and Roy Coles of the losers totaled 689.

Led by Jack Stack's 667 the Keeleys totaled 3066, good for two victories over Samuelson's Kids. In other matches, the Birk Brothers beat the Farwals twice; Fox De Luxe increased its lead to two games by sweeping its series with the Michelobs, and the Sig and Mikes won a pair from the second place Joseph L. Gills.

George Miller of the Farwals, Axel Sandquist of Fox De Luxe and Bill Hargadon of the Gills each rolled a 666 series.

WHEELER RAPS SUGGESTION OF RADIO CENSOR

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] took sharp exception today to a recent statement by Neville Miller, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, that radio could not tolerate "abuse" of freedom of speech.

"Who is Mr. Miller that he should set himself up to say when free speech should be denied to any citizen of the United States?" Wheeler asked.

"What special knowledge does he possess that he can judge when 1 or anyone else abuses free speech? In times of hysteria which sweep this country there always are those superpatriots who believe they are destined to regulate the actions and the speech of their fellow men."

LIEUT. T. J. JOYCE, 58, FIRE VETERAN AND HERO, IS DEAD

Lieut. Thomas J. Joyce, veteran of twenty-two years' service with the fire department and a winner of THE TRIBUNE'S hero award in January, 1929, died of heart disease yesterday while hunting near Rutherford and Belden avenues. He lived at 1534 North Menard avenue and was 58 years old. The hero award was made to Lieut. Joyce for rescuing an unconscious man from a building at 822 North Lavergne avenue. He had to drag the victim more than forty feet through fire and dense smoke. For this feat he also was given the Lambert Tree medal. On several other occasions he was cited for heroism. His widow, a daughter, and two sons survive.

FUNERAL TO BE TOMORROW FOR HARRY MYERS

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Harry Myers, known as the brightest of comedians when the movies were young and the gamest of extras when his fortunes waned, will be buried Wednesday. He died on Christmas day in a hospital room paid for by the film industry's relief fund.

The actor, best remembered for his starring rôle in the first screen version of "A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court," died after a three day attack of pneumonia. He was 56 years old.

He and Rosemary Theby, his widow, were acting for such companies as Lubin and the old Universal while many stars of today were hardly out of kindergarten.

Harry Myers.

EDISON UTILITY PURCHASES ARE UPHELD BY COURT

The Commonwealth Edison company's acquisition of the Public Service company of Northern Illinois and the Western United Gas and Electric company has been upheld in a decision by the Appellate court of Illinois, the Edison company announced yesterday. The court on Dec. 13 ruled against two stockholders, Owen Barton Jones and George A. Bates, who had filed suit to prevent the carrying out of the Edison company's financial program involving the acquisition of Public Service and Western United.

The acquisitions were approved by stockholders at a meeting Jan. 23, 1937. Jones and Bates previous to that date had tried to obtain an injunction preventing the meeting. This was denied, whereupon they sought to prevent the carrying out of the financial plans approved at the meeting.

The case is an outgrowth of litigation begun in 1933, when Jones and Bates sought to recover $25,000,000 which they alleged the Edison company spent under an electric energy interchange contract with Public Service of Northern Illinois and two other utilities.

Investors' Guide

Wants 6 Per Cent.

Investors' Guide: Here is my problem: I owned thirty shares of Ohio Oil 6 per cent preferred, but the company redeemed nine of them on Sept. 15, paying me $110 per share. Since then my $990 has been in the bank earning me almost nothing. I want to invest this money so it will bring 6 per cent, the same as I got before. Would it be wise for me to put my money back into Ohio Oil preferred? I also have some Champion Paper and Fibre 6 per cent preferred, which has paid dividends regularly. I might put half my money in that and half in Ohio Oil. I was 72 years old Christmas day and have to watch what I have left very carefully. What would you advise?—G. H. H.

Answer: The Ohio Oil company has been carrying on a refunding program. It issued $21,000,000 of fifteen year debentures at 3¼ per cent and used the proceeds to buy up some of the 6 per cent preferred stock in the market and to have funds available for calling an additional large block of the preferred.

On Sept. 15, 30 per cent of the outstanding preferred was redeemed at $110 a share on the pro rata basis of three shares for each ten held by stockholders. The refunding operations reduced the amount of preferred stock outstanding from $54,608,000 to $35,500,000. The low rate of interest, 3¼ per cent, on the debentures, made possible a substantial reduction in the combined amount the company is required to pay for interest and preferred dividends.

You may now buy Ohio Oil preferred on the market for about $110, which is just what the company paid you in calling it. The company, however, may carry through further refunding, in which case it would call more preferred and leave you with the cash on your hands again. No official announcement of proposed refunding has been made. The stock is high grade, but the call possibility must be considered.

As for Champion Paper and Fibre 6 per cent preferred, it is now selling at about $102 a share, or a yield of 5.88 per cent. This stock is also callable at $110, but there is no immediate prospect of redemption. The company earned preferred dividends with plenty to spare in 1935, 1936, and 1937 [fiscal years ended April 30], but reported net income of only $10,946, or 14 cents a preferred share, in the first twenty-eight weeks of this fiscal year. The stock is a business risk—it needs watching.

Because interest rates are so low now it is difficult—if not impossible—to get a 6 per cent return with safety.

Jobs, Pay Rolls Up in Seventh Reserve Area

Led by sharp increases in the automobile industry, jobs and pay rolls in the 7th federal reserve district [Chicago] increased in November for the fourth consecutive month. This was reported yesterday by H. P. Preston, first vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. The 7th district includes all of Iowa and northern and central Illinois and Indiana, most of Michigan, and southern and central Wisconsin.

The increase from October to November was 4.2 per cent in the number of wage earners and 4.4 per cent in the total of pay checks. Data used in the report were collected by the bank from 13,246 companies. Durable goods lines, chiefly automobiles and metals, were responsible for the upturn, Preston said.

Number at Work Increases.

The number of wage earners in November advanced 13.2 per cent over the October figures, and dollar earnings of workers moved up 12 per cent. In the metals establishments jobs were 4.5 per cent higher and earnings were up 6.1 per cent.

The report said that the November volume of employment in all industries reporting to the bank was off 16 per cent from the total for November, 1937, and that pay rolls were down 18 per cent. These declines, however, were the smallest ones this year from the corresponding 1937 figures, the report said.

Nondurable Industries Gain.

"In the current [November] comparison with 1937," the summary continued, "the nondurable goods industries are in a considerably better position than are the durable, with the percentage decreases in the former being less than 10 per cent as against close to 25 per cent in the latter. For nonmanufacturing industries the production of automobiles in November 5 per cent each in employment and pay rolls."

In spite of the durable goods lag, production of automobiles in November exceeded the corresponding 1937 output for the first time this year, Preston pointed out. His report predicted, moreover, that the output for December will show a further gain and will be substantially greater than in December, 1937, when slipping demand caused manufacturers to curtail production schedules.

Everyday Economics

Trucking Industry—3.

Although huge fleets of for hire truckers form a network across the country, the private carrier group comprises the largest percentage of highway haulage. Farmers, retailers, jobbers, wholesalers, mining companies, and factories years ago discovered new sales possibilities in the truck. It promised quicker delivery and smoother distribution of their products. It also opened undeveloped markets.

Farmers make up the largest single class of private carriers. They own and operate more than a million trucks to haul their produce to market. Fruit and vegetable spoilage previously kept down the radius to which a farmer could ship his goods. Refrigerator trucks now reduce spoilage to a minimum.

Use of motor trucking has been less acceptable generally in the south than elsewhere. A great many southern states have passed more restrictive legislation than other states.

Many states, principally in the west and far west, have established ports of entry systems at their borders and hamper free interstate motor commerce. Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, and California have systems where cargo trucks are stopped, weighed, and often assessed with fees. Some states limit truck lengths. The Illinois uniform motor vehicle law commission is working on new laws for regulation of trucks within the state. When the law is completed the commission will pass on its model to every other state with a view toward standardization.

BRITISH FOREIGN HOLDINGS BEING PUT IN STOCKS

Capital Investments Seen Slowly Drying Up.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec.—26.—Great Britain's capital investments abroad, on the income of which this country depends largely to offset the adverse visible trade balance, appear in danger of gradually drying up, according to Sir Robert Kindersley, leading financial expert.

In an authoritative annual survey published in this month's Economic Journal, he strikes the warning note that Britain's overseas investments are being depleted and their quality falling off due to the widespread movement from bonds into stocks in search of capital appreciation or large dividends.

Britain's income last year from dividends and interest on quoted overseas investments is estimated at $883,000,000 against $822,000,000 the preceding twelve months. Over the corresponding period income from private and unquoted investments is computed at $105,500,000, compared with $98,000,000.

Investments Over 16 Billion.

At the same time, the total nominal amount of overseas investments in quoted securities is set at $16,765,000,000, against $16,820,000,000 the preceding year.

Kindersley's investigations disclose several adverse factors despite the apparent expansion of receipts last year. In come from overseas governments and local governments, it is revealed, slumped from $294,500,000 to $273,000,000 and fixed interest receipts from company investments also declined.

The survey emphasizes that between 1930 and 1937 the ratio of stock to loan capital held abroad by British investors expanded from 54.4 per cent to 58.5 and the ratio of stock to loan rose from 89.4 to 118.3 per cent.

Repayments, defaults, and conversions to lower rates of interest were partly responsible for this development.

Buy Foreign Equities.

While the total income from British capital abroad in 1937 was the biggest since 1930 and may be slightly higher in the current year, Kindersley looks for a sharp diminution in the next few years.

Concluding, he warns that the continued decline in British overseas investments, from which a steady substantial income has accrued for many years, presents a serious problem for it is the receipts from this source that has enabled this country to maintain a standard of living higher than almost any other European country.

BUSINESS SIGNS FOR 1939 BRIGHT, BANK ASSERTS

Business prospects for 1939 are encouraging, the Guaranty Trust company said yesterday in its monthly issue of the Guaranty Survey.

"The encouraging implications of the upward momentum of the last seven months are obvious," the publication reported. "The imminent threat of war has been reduced, temporarily at least. Credit resources are more than adequate to meet any conceivable demand, and interest rates are extremely low."

GLASS TO DEMAND RIGID RULE OF BANK HOLDING COMPANIES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Senator Glass [D., Va.] said today he would demand action in the next session of congress on his proposal to impose rigid control over bank holding companies.

The 80 year old Virginian, who has voiced caustic criticism of many New Deal policies, introduced a bill last spring to regulate these companies after President Roosevelt had condemned "concentrated economic power" in a message to congress.

Among other things, Glass' bill would forbid the formation of additional bank holding companies, prohibit existing holding companies from acquiring control of additional banks, and prevent banks controled by holding companies from establishing additional branches. In effect, it would "freeze" the bank holding company structure at its present size.

[There now are fifty holding companies controling 500 banks with assets of $8,000,000,000.]

In another field of banking, Senator Logan [D., Ky.] said he would ask congress to give the federal reserve board authority to manipulate currency and credit controls so as to maintain a constant price level. Logan said the bank had been "much interested" in his proposal but thus far had not taken a stand for or against it.
